

very significantly, Mrs. Halverson testified, and so she put the question.

MRS. HALVERSON—Do you mean money?

MR. COLVIN—Yes, I mean money.

MRS. HALVERSON—It has cost me quite a sum to make those trips up and down the state and I have no money.

MR. COLVIN—You are running around the state spending money and getting nowhere.

Then the despairing mother told Colvin she would return again, she told the jurors, and she went to Chicago and informed Attorney Francis of what had transpired. He was indignant, she said, and asserted he would see Colvin.

Still her son was no nearer release and Mrs. Halverson consulted Assistant Superintendent William Bergon of the reformatory, she testified. He advised her against paying money to Colvin to buy her son's release, the witness declared.

Hears of Messian.

So she planted her hope on the parole board, making repeated trips to Pontiac, but at no season was her son even accorded a hearing, she testified. Then Attorney Francis told her of Maj. Messian, in whose company Colvin had $25,000 in stock received by him as a gift, and of Messian's considerable influence in getting paroles for convicts.

"I went to see Maj. Messian and presented to him my boy's case," Mrs. Halverson said. "By that time he had served much longer than other prisoners had on the same charge. Messian promised that my son would be released within a month."

"So I went to Pontiac for the next meeting of the parole board, and to my despair I was notified that Messian had telephoned that he would not appear. Neither he nor Colvin was at the session."

Come to the end of her string, Mrs. Halverson was forced to give up, she declared, and her son finally was paroled on March 10, 1925, after having served nearly the maximum term for his offense.

Menard Prison Canvas.

Great interest was exhibited by the jurors also, in the testimony on the alleged canvases of the Illinois penitentiary at Menard in search of convicts who had money to buy paroles. William Focher, former superintendent of the tailoring shop at the prison, was reported to have made a detailed statement in which he admitted going about among the prisoners, seeking prospects for the Illinois pardon mill, headed by Maj. Messian, according to prosecutors.

John W. Gibbons, president of the Institution Supply company, named by Focher as the middle man who turned Focher's prospects over to Messian, was also called, but despite repeated questioning denied he had entered a parole selling conspiracy.

SMALL, BEFORE GRAND JURORS, BACKS PARDONS

Puts Prison Blame on Warden Whitman.

Joliet, Ill., May 25.—(Special.)—Gov. Len Small appeared here today before the Will county grand jury, which is investigating prison conditions and alleged graft in the granting of paroles.

While Gov. Small in his testimony insisted that he took full responsibility for all paroles, yet in the case of Frank "Porky" Dillon, Chicago ex-convict, about which he was specifically asked, he shifted responsibility, it is said, to the Chicago police.

He told the jurors that Will Colvin, head of the state department of pardons and paroles, was responsible for all paroles, yet in the notorious case of Mrs. D. Perry Jr., about which he was again specifically asked, the governor again shifted responsibility to the Chicago police.

Puts Blame on Whitman.

The only shoulders on which the governor left responsibility squarely were those of Warden John L. Whitman of the state's prison here. He laid the burden, he said, responsible for all the conduct of the penitentiary, and he indicated in a statement issued right after he left the jury room that Whitman probably will be relieved of his position as warden.

When informed of the governor's statement Warden Whitman, who is to appear before the grand jury again tomorrow, said that he was not considering resigning. He added that in his testimony today he would answer any charges made by the governor regarding the conduct of the prison. He added, further, that he probably would supply his previous testimony, which severely arraigned the governor's penal policy.

Before Jury Two Hours.

The governor went into the jury room about 9:30 in the morning, after making a prepared statement, and remained about two hours. His demeanor in the jury room is said to have been grave.

Small told the jurors he did not have a specific memory of many cases, but he did know about the Dillon and Perry cases, he said. When he was asked why he pardoned Dillon, sent to jail for that crime, and so they fastened on a charge of robbery, he re-

GENERAL'S STORIES DRIVE MINISTERS FROM CLUB DINNER

New York, May 25.—(Special.)—An incident which occurred at the annual dinner of the Men's club of Pelham is causing discussion.

The principal speaker was Maj. Gen. Robert Lee Bullard, U.S.A., retired, who commanded the first division in France.

Some of the guests are said to have suggested to him that a serious address would be out of keeping with the spirit of the evening, and so Gen. Bullard announced he would tell a few stories. The Rev. Herbert H. Brown, pastor of the Church of the Redeemer of North Pelham, and the Rev. G. Lewis Leary, pastor of the Huguenot church of Pelham, are reported to have sat blushing through the first story, and to have left the room as the second started. Other guests enjoyed them hugely.

Maj. Gen. Bullard would not discuss the matter tonight.

"Is it true," he was asked, "that you recited risqué stories at the dinner?"

"Of course not," he replied. Then he chuckled.

He said that he did it because the Chicago police and the teamsters' union wanted him pardoned.

Small told the jurors that he signed the pardon because representations had been made to him that Dillon was a valuable "stool pigeon" for the police department and that he added them and the teamsters' union a great deal in recovering stolen goods.

The Perry Case.

As to the Perry case, he said he remembered that well, too. He said he believed that Perry had been made the goat in the case, and that in such a crime, where several were involved, he didn't believe that "was quite fair."

He told the jury he didn't believe that Perry was the man who actually committed the murder to which Perry had confessed, and that, therefore, Perry should be let out of prison—and then the shout over onto the Chicago police again.

"Perry," the governor said, "was the easiest man for the Chicago police to get for that crime, and so they fastened on a charge of robbery, he re-ened the murder on him—at least, that was the representation to us. The state's attorney's office in Chicago was notified the pardon was coming up and sent no one down to oppose it."

Quizzed by Rehn.

While he told of the Dillon case, State's Attorney Rehn is reported to have asked him bluntly:

"You did it because the police wanted Dillon pardoned?" and the governor replied, "Yes, such representations were made to me."

After he emerged from the juryroom the governor walked along, chatting with newspaper men. He said at that time that he believed all hearings on pardons and paroles should be public and that the public also should have access to the records. He was asked about the honor farm.

"Well," he said, "the honor farm is all right in theory, but I don't think it is good discipline to men there when they are walking away."

"What did the grand jury ask you, governor?"

Hears Many Things.

He smiled. "I heard a good many things in there that surprised me. Yes, I was surprised at the information they have gathered. Why they have heard more than 100 witnesses."

"What are you going to do, governor?"

"This murder," he replied, "is a terrible tragedy. Such things should not be permissible. I am going to take whatever steps are necessary to change conditions and to make Will county safe from the convicts."

He evaded all questions as to who might be Whitman's successor.

"I didn't say there would be a successor," he said.

This was before he had issued the statement patently indicating, Whitman will be ousted. That came just a few minutes later.

Hits at Warden.

This second statement reads as follows:

"It seems to me such terrible tragedies as the murder of the warden's wife, which occurred at the Joliet penitentiary about ten years ago, and the killing of Deputy Warden Klein are inexcusable and would not have happened had there been proper discipline in the institution. The frequent and continuous escapes from the penitentiary, including the so-called honor farm, are wrong and in violation of law, and I shall insist that they be stopped."

Warden Whitman was appointed (by ex-Gov. Lowden) after the death of Warden Murphy. There was nothing in the way of politics that entered into his appointment. I believe it was his experience and reputation, and he has been given a free hand to try out his theories. I believe that he was, and is, sincere, and there is much that is good in his theories, but the escapes from the prison have constantly increased, and this terrible tragedy, the murder of a deputy warden by seven convicts, has taken place."

Gov. Small testified, it is said, that Whitman always told him that there was no lack of discipline at the prison anywhere. He denied that any money had ever been passed for paroles or pardons. He said he was sure none in his administration ever took "one dollar" for any such thing.

He said he heard complaints about prison from time to time, that Jenkins had been in a quandary about it, didn't know whether to let Whitman go or not. He wanted to give Whitman a chance to see if his theories would work. He wanted Whitman to have a chance to "work out things."

He concluded by saying that the constitution gives the governor powers to grant paroles and commute sentences and that he wanted it understood by the jury that he had gone into every case thoroughly before he pardoned a man.

Pardon and Parole.

In an earlier statement issued by the governor just before he entered the grand jury room, he stated that it was apparent the public and the newspapers did not understand the difference between parole and pardon or commutation of sentence.

For pardon, he said, the governor was wholly responsible, and he had always given each application close study before granting or refusing it. He produced figures which he said proved that he had pardoned fewer criminals than other governors, and added that he had never permitted wealth or influence to enter into his decisions.

Paroles, he said, were given when the prisoners had served their sentences. Parole agents, he declared, obtained jobs for the prisoners when released and watched over them for a year. They were empowered to send the men back to the penitentiary if they misbehaved.

"I do not believe that any person connected with this state administration has ever accepted any money or any other emolument for pardoning or recommending the pardon of any convict," he said in concluding his formal statement.

Girl, 3, and Woman, 72, Killed by Stairway Falls

Falls down stairways yesterday caused the deaths of a 72-year-old woman and a three-year-old girl on the south side. Emma Martin, 72, Normal boulevard, the child, slipped away from her mother as they stood on steps leading to the elevated station at 63d street and Darnell avenue, tripped and fell twenty feet to the sidewalk. She died of skull fracture in St. Bernard's hospital. Mrs. Christine Ling, 1729 West 106th place, died as a result of a plunge down the basement steps of her home.

ADD TEN SQUADS TO DETECTIVE BUREAU FORCE

Beginning on Saturday ten more squads will be added to the detective bureau motor forces. This will give Chief of Detectives Schoenmaker 430 men under his orders as a centralized force.

The additional squads will permit use of thirty squads for each eight hour shift. Lieut. John L. Sullivan, Michael Grady, and Edward Birmingham last night were assigned as zone inspectors in charge of the three shifts.

Deputy Chief John Stige will be in command of the three lieutenants and all the squads. He and Schoenmaker hope that the additional squads will make it easier to combat gangsters.

JOYCE ADMITS WINE BATH; NUDITY PRETTY DRUNK

She's Only 17 and So Comes from Chicago.

New York, May 25.—(Special.)—Joyce Hawley, who was born in Chicago, had a second big act today as she told of the bath that has made her famous. Her first big time appearance was the bath, itself, and it was taken on the morning of Feb. 23 last on the stage of the Earl Carroll theater.

Joyce, who shared with Jean Cobb, the author, the limelight of testifying today at Earl Carroll's trial for perjury, declared that not only did she bathe nude in a tub of wine but that she "got drunk" around it some of the same wine in which she later bathed.

Charges Bribe Attempt.

She declared also on the witness stand that Chris Seale, right hand man for Earl Carroll, tried to bribe her to go before the grand jury and swear that no inquiry was served Carroll's party, but that she refused.

Joyce testified that she had changed from street clothes to a bath suit at the party, then taken off the suit and put on a chemise and she later, when it came time for her to get into the tub, she saw the chemise and shoes and got into the tub while Carroll held a clock over her. She had seen several men drink from the tub.

When she was in the tub, she saw the bottle of wine and the tub was wheeled off the stage. Then she turned, Earl Carroll "bawled her out for crying."

Promised a Job.

She swore she had never received money from Carroll for the bath, appearance, but had been promised a job at the theater.

Miss Hawley is a bright blonde, 5 ft. 10 in. tall, and was in a sort of semi-nude state when she was wheeled off the stage. She was wearing a chemise and a pair of white stockings.

Q—What did you receive? A—Twenty dollars for the night's show.

Invited to Party.

Q—Were you at the Earl Carroll party on the night of Washington birthday? A—Yes, I was invited by Juan Tonandell the Tuesday before.

Q—Did you see a bath tub on stage? A—Yes, on the left side of the stage.

LOSES ALIENATION SUIT

A parent who breaks up his child's marriage is not liable for damages in an alienation of affections suit if he acted in good faith and without malice, the Appellate court decided yesterday.

They affirmed a verdict in the Circuit court holding Zephania Dunn, 4552 Grand boulevard, president of the International Trade Developer company, not guilty of alienating the affections of his son, Calvert Z. Dunn, from his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Tilden Dunn.

Mrs. Dunn had sued for $100,000 damages. She charged that the elder Dunn broke up the marriage by sending his son on a tour of Europe and attempting to obtain her arrest on a serious charge.

ASQUITH FLAYS LLOYD GEORGE FOR STRIKE VIEW

British Liberals Split by Ex-Premiers' Row.

By JOHN STEELE
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)
LONDON, May 25.—A serious split in the Liberal party looms tonight following publication of a letter from Lord Oxford and Asquith, addressed to David Lloyd George, and the latter's reply to his political chief.

Lord Oxford's letter bitterly denounced the strike taken by Mr. Lloyd George during the general strike. He mentions in strong terms Mr. Lloyd George's article, published during the strike in certain American papers, and which predicted a "prolonged duration of the conflict and ultimate wearing down of the British people through weary about their vanishing trade."

"I cannot but deplore," the letter reads, "that a presentation of the case should have been offered to the outside world on the authority of a former prime minister of Great Britain and chairman of the Liberal parliamentary party."

Lloyd George Defends Himself.
In his reply Mr. Lloyd George comes back strongly, defending his position both before and during the strike, and disclaiming that he had said or done anything to call for such "unprecedented criticism."

"I have done my best in every way to make the Liberal union under my leadership a reality, and if discussion is once more to be prompted in the ranks, the responsibility must rest elsewhere," he said. "If it must come, however, let us be clear that the conflict is about and whether it is an issue of principle or power, or personal character."

Lord Oxford's letter was written on May 25, and the following day Mr. Lloyd George acknowledged receipt of it, but did not reply in full until today.

As for the Liberal's leader, "I would not be doing my duty as leader of the Liberal party if I did not convey to you my regret for the course you have pursued in the present domestic crisis, the country has faced in your time or mine," Lord Oxford wrote.

He recalled the stand taken by the Liberal leaders at the meeting of the "shadow cabinet" on May 2, the eve of the strike, which was to condemn the Trades Union Congress' action in calling the strike.

Tried to Revert Britain.
He points out that Lloyd George and Lord Grey wrote a heartening letter in the British Gazette, the government's strike paper, and that Sir John Simon had made a powerful contribution to the understanding of the case in his hour of controversy recently.

"On Monday, May 10, I attended another meeting of the shadow cabinet, which all my colleagues attended with the single exception of yourself. Your reasons given for your withdrawal I consider wholly unconvincing, were that declarations had been made in the government press by myself and other Liberal leaders to which you were obliged to consent, and still could not see the way to condemning the general strike while refraining from criticism of the government, who were equally not in a responsible position."

LEADS WOMEN

Miss Doris Stevens, head of American delegation to International Women's Suffrage alliance convention in Paris. She is the wife of Dudley Field Malone, but retains her maiden name by agreement.

Having failed to send his house of lords speech, and returning to his refusal to attend the meeting, he said, "I was obliged to do so, and impossible to resist with my own copy of the obligations of political comradeship."

Opposed Unconditional Surrender.
In reply, Mr. Lloyd George leaps to the defense of his own attitude by recalling the fact that at the meeting of the "shadow cabinet" on May 2 both

Lord Oxford and his other colleagues warmly approved the line he had taken in a speech at Cambridge on May 1, in which he said the government must be supported in any action it takes to preserve order during the strike, that by delay and dawdling the government was primarily responsible for the situation, and urging the government to get on with the negotiations and really "buckle the job."

He admits he also deprecated the action of the government in suppressing the Archbishop of Canterbury's appeal in behalf of the Christian churches for the resumption of negotiations, but except for these criticisms he says he supported the government's emergency measures.

As to his American article, Mr. Lloyd George charges that Lord Oxford did not read it with any care, by no attention to the fact that the Manchester Guardian approved it.

IF YOU WOULD SEE SATURN,
LOOK AT MOON

BY NERY MAXWELL
Those who do not know the planet Saturn by sight will have a fine opportunity to make its acquaintance tonight, for it will be quite near to the full moon. Look near the moon and you will see a reddish yellow star. It will be brighter than any of the near stars. It is the great ringed planet.

This dwarf, the possessor of two heavy rings, is the only planet in our solar system which is called a conjunction by astronomers. Saturn is a huge world, many times the size of the earth, while the moon is really only a small body, as a celestial object, but the moon is near while Saturn is far away, and so the moon will seem the more important of the two objects tonight.

Saturn is the only world we know of that is encircled by a ring. This ring will be observable tonight, but it will require a telescope to see it. The eye alone will not be able to separate the rings of Saturn and ring. In a telescope, Saturn is a startling sight. One sees a huge greenish-yellow ball spinning rapidly and crossed by filmy belts. About this ball are rings, spinning even faster than the ball, and just outside the rings are nine moons, also whirling.

Lord Oxford and his other colleagues warmly approved the line he had taken in a speech at Cambridge on May 1, in which he said the government must be supported in any action it takes to preserve order during the strike, that by delay and dawdling the government was primarily responsible for the situation, and urging the government to get on with the negotiations and really "buckle the job."

He admits he also deprecated the action of the government in suppressing the Archbishop of Canterbury's appeal in behalf of the Christian churches for the resumption of negotiations, but except for these criticisms he says he supported the government's emergency measures.

As to his American article, Mr. Lloyd George charges that Lord Oxford did not read it with any care, by no attention to the fact that the Manchester Guardian approved it.

IF YOU WOULD SEE SATURN,
LOOK AT MOON

BY NERY MAXWELL
Those who do not know the planet Saturn by sight will have a fine opportunity to make its acquaintance tonight, for it will be quite near to the full moon. Look near the moon and you will see a reddish yellow star. It will be brighter than any of the near stars. It is the great ringed planet.

This dwarf, the possessor of two heavy rings, is the only planet in our solar system which is called a conjunction by astronomers. Saturn is a huge world, many times the size of the earth, while the moon is really only a small body, as a celestial object, but the moon is near while Saturn is far away, and so the moon will seem the more important of the two objects tonight.

Saturn is the only world we know of that is encircled by a ring. This ring will be observable tonight, but it will require a telescope to see it. The eye alone will not be able to separate the rings of Saturn and ring. In a telescope, Saturn is a startling sight. One sees a huge greenish-yellow ball spinning rapidly and crossed by filmy belts. About this ball are rings, spinning even faster than the ball, and just outside the rings are nine moons, also whirling.

DIG 100 BODIES OUT OF LAVA IN JAPAN; 1,000 LOST

BY RODERICK MATHESON.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

TOKIO, May 25.—The death toll from the eruption of Mount Iwo and Mount Tokachi in Tokachi province, Honkaido island, is rapidly mounting as rescue workers proceed with their arduous task of digging the dead from the lava flows which descended from the mountains following the first explosions from the long dormant volcano. It is reported the eruptions are continuing.

About 100 dead have been recovered. Another 100 are seriously injured, about 1,000 are missing and 2,500 are homeless. Rescue trains are stalled, and one-half of tracks having been washed out by the rising of the lava beds and the overflowing of the waters and by the draining of a large area of the mountainside into the villages. The lava covers eight square miles.

It is reported that the village of Iiyama, with 200 inhabitants was completely destroyed and the inhabitants buried in the lava.

Tokio, May 26, Wednesday.—An eyewitness account of Monday's disastrous eruption of the long dormant Mount Tokachi describes the descent of a huge avalanche of water, mud and lava sweeping down the mountain like a tidal wave, carrying with it trees and telegraph poles and

BOY STEALING A RIDE CAUSES TRUCK CRASH AND 303D AUTO DEATH

When a small boy stealing a ride on a lumber truck trader uncoupled the trailer yesterday he was the cause of the death of one man and injuries to another.

The trailer to a truck of the American Lumber company, 3792 Milwaukee avenue, swerved to one side when it was uncoupled. Another truck, up branching in Irving Park boulevard, was forced to the curb to avoid striking the trailer. Thomas Hardman, 41 years old, 1416 South Loomis street, riding on the truck, jumped and was crushed to death by death its wheels. Edward Curtis, 34 years old, 2345 Cottage Grove avenue, the truck driver, also jumped and was severely hurt.

The death raised the Cook county toll to 26 for the year. Thomas Hardman, 32 years old, 541 North Ashland avenue, conductor for the Chicago Surface lines, was injured probably fatally last night when struck by an automobile which was attempting to pass a street car on the wrong side of the street at Irving Park boulevard and Oakley avenue. The automobile was driven by Stanley Jackson, 3738 Sheridan road. He was arrested for violating the railway near the base of the volcano.

There were three explosions, the eye witness said, the last of which released a great mass of lava which fell for years in the crater. Villagers living on the slopes fled shrieking, but many were caught in the flood and drowned or were buried beneath the flowing mud and lava.

The referendum will show the people, and the house the feeling of the people.

Our proposition is the same that will be presented in New York and Pennsylvania, was drafted by Ethel Root, a great Republican and a great constitutional lawyer. If New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois vote for modification, does anybody doubt that the law will be modified?

My election next November will be more than an academic referendum. Two years ago Coolidge carried Illinois by 800,000 votes. But who is frightened now? It is not the candidate who favors modification of the Volstead law. It's the Republican candidate who ran down to Washington the other day to ask for help.

SCOTT WINS NEW SANITY TRIAL IN FIGHT FOR LIFE

Novel Legal Points May Go to Supreme Court.

CRIMINAL COURT.
Charles Scott, burglar, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge John F. Weathers.
Scott, sentenced to 1 to 10 years back in the penitentiary by Judge Weathers.
An Elmer confidence game, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Harry D. Miller.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Russell Scott is not in any immediate danger of being hanged. Before his appeal is built in the jail yard, it is some apparent yesterday, a good many legal hurdles will have to be taken by the state. The Supreme court may have to pass on the legality of the state's appeal.

With no money, with a state's attorney, something that he is sent to the gallows, at once, with no lawyers, things looked black for Scott yesterday morning as he stood before Judge William V. Broderick, but in the person Attorney William Scott, Scott appeared for him, the state was blocked in immediate action by the state's attorney, and the law's delay was a sheltering arm to the convicted slayer.

Must Call New Jury.

While George E. Gorman, first assistant state's attorney, presented a petition which, if granted, would have a quick execution for Scott; the court said that the first question to be decided was Scott's sanity, and that he would have to be passed upon by a new jury before any execution order could be entered.

Over the objections of Mr. Gorman, the court set the sanity trial up on its own court for next Tuesday and intimated that he would not force the state then unless they had had a full opportunity to have good evidence. Judge Brothers said he had a definite plan in mind in regard to the expert testimony, but did not disclose it.

Scott Has Many Chances.

Scott, then, has this new chance to a jury, the appeal on the legality of the state's move in bringing him back from the Chester Hospital for the insane, and on the question of procedure. Finally, the convicted slayer has the chance of getting new evidence which he hopes to turn sentiment in his favor at the trial of his brother. Scott for the same murder of which he was convicted, that of Joseph Bauer. This trial is set for June 4.

Scott was self-assured as he appeared in the courtroom. His wife, Catherine Scott, was there to meet him. She had clutched in her hands a copy of "Golden Nuggets," a pamphlet on salesmanship written by

He Who takes the trouble to observe the food, service and surroundings at Henri's and to compare menu figures with the prices in any other restaurant in America providing food, service and environment of comparable quality, is at no loss to know why thousands of persons enter the doors of Henri's daily.

QUESTION RIGHT OF COOLIDGE TO ISSUE DRY EDICT

Senate Votes to Test Its Legality.

justified the furor over his order, which, he is convinced, the treasury department sought merely to legalize certain appointments of enforcers in California.

In the senate debate Senator Borah (Rep., Idaho), a dry, expressed the opinion that the Coolidge order "lacks legality." Like the Grant order, he suggested, it merely expressed a policy.

Then the senate got into the question of whether the Republican primary in Pennsylvania was really a referendum on prohibition. Senator Bruce (Dem., Mass.), a wet, thought that the nomination of Vane for the senate on a modification platform indicated that Pennsylvania is wet.

Drys Were Divided.

"But the drys were divided between Finckh and Pepper," objected Senator Robinson (Dem., Ark.), "and the combined vote of the dry candidates exceeded that for Vane, from which it might be argued that Pennsylvania is dry. I myself think Pennsylvania is one of the few states in the Union which is wet."

"Had Senator Pepper come out as a wet he would have been renominated by 250,000," observed Senator Bruce. Senator Reed (Rep., Pa.) said that so intelligent conclusion could be drawn from the primary for the reason that while the vote of the two dry candidates for senator exceeded that of the successful wet candidate, the vote of the three wet candidates for governor exceeded the vote of the successful dry candidate.

If He Had Run Wet.

"If Pepper had been wet would he not have been elected?" asked Bruce. "No, I don't think so," responded Reed.

"But isn't it true," asked Senator Bruce, "that Vane could not have been renominated had he not been notoriously wet?" "Yes," assented Senator Reed, "I think that is true. The fact is the real issues were ignored. People shut their eyes and voted only wet or dry. So long as they do that the dunders heads deserve what they get."

"They're not underheads by any means," Bruce objected. "The Pennsylvania situation also came in for attention on the house side of the capital. Representative Gallivan (Dem., Mass.) conferred with wet Democrats who agreed to stump Pennsylvania for Vane, the Republican candidate for the senate. If the Anti-Saloon

PRINCETON FACULTY IS WET, BALLOT ON PROHIBITION SHOWS

Princeton, N. J., May 25.—(Special.) Members of the faculty at Princeton university returning yesterday 126 ballots issued by the National Students' federation, indicated strong sentiment against prohibition. Forty-two voted for modification, while forty favored complete repeal of the law and twenty-four favored the present laws. Twenty expressed no opinion on prohibition. The twenty-four votes favoring prohibition stated that enforcement of the law would improve with time, but that as yet the law had not received a fair trial.

One professor gave as his reason for voting against prohibition that "I am opposed to prohibition as a restriction placed upon individual freedom, sharing the view of the British churchman, 'I should rather see England free than sober.'"

League runs the campaign of William B. Wilson, the Democratic candidate. "If it is true," said Gallivan, "that William B. Wilson, Democratic senatorial nominee in Pennsylvania, has subscribed to the Anti-Saloon league doctrine and his campaign is to be managed in part by F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the league, in an effort to defeat the Hon. William S. Vane, the Republican senatorial nominee, then some of us Democrats here in the house are ready and willing to go into the Democratic sections of the state of Pennsylvania in behalf of Billie Vane."

McBride insists that Wilson is more of an Anti-Saloon league candidate than a Democratic candidate. There has been no denial of his allegation. This being true, half a dozen northern Democrats will offer their services to Congressman Vane and will go anywhere he asks us to, any time during the campaign.

His Stand As a Democrat.

"It is shocking enough for a northern Democrat to realize that the Anti-Saloon league controls the Democratic party in the south; if it is to control the Democratic party in a great state like Pennsylvania, then I don't want to be a Democrat."

"One of the most brilliant newspapermen in America, who has never before taken a public stand on this wet and dry question, said today that the quickest way to get rid of prohibition is to concentrate all enforcement in the wet drinking, dry voting south, and he added that the day it becomes impossible in Dixie for a white man to take a drink as it is for a black man to cast a ballot prohibition will see its finish."

The British resolution provides that no state officers shall be employed as federal enforcers unless they sever connection with the state or other local government, that no person shall be employed at a nominal salary except by special act of congress and that all prohibition enforcers shall be placed under civil service.

Can't Serve Two Masters.

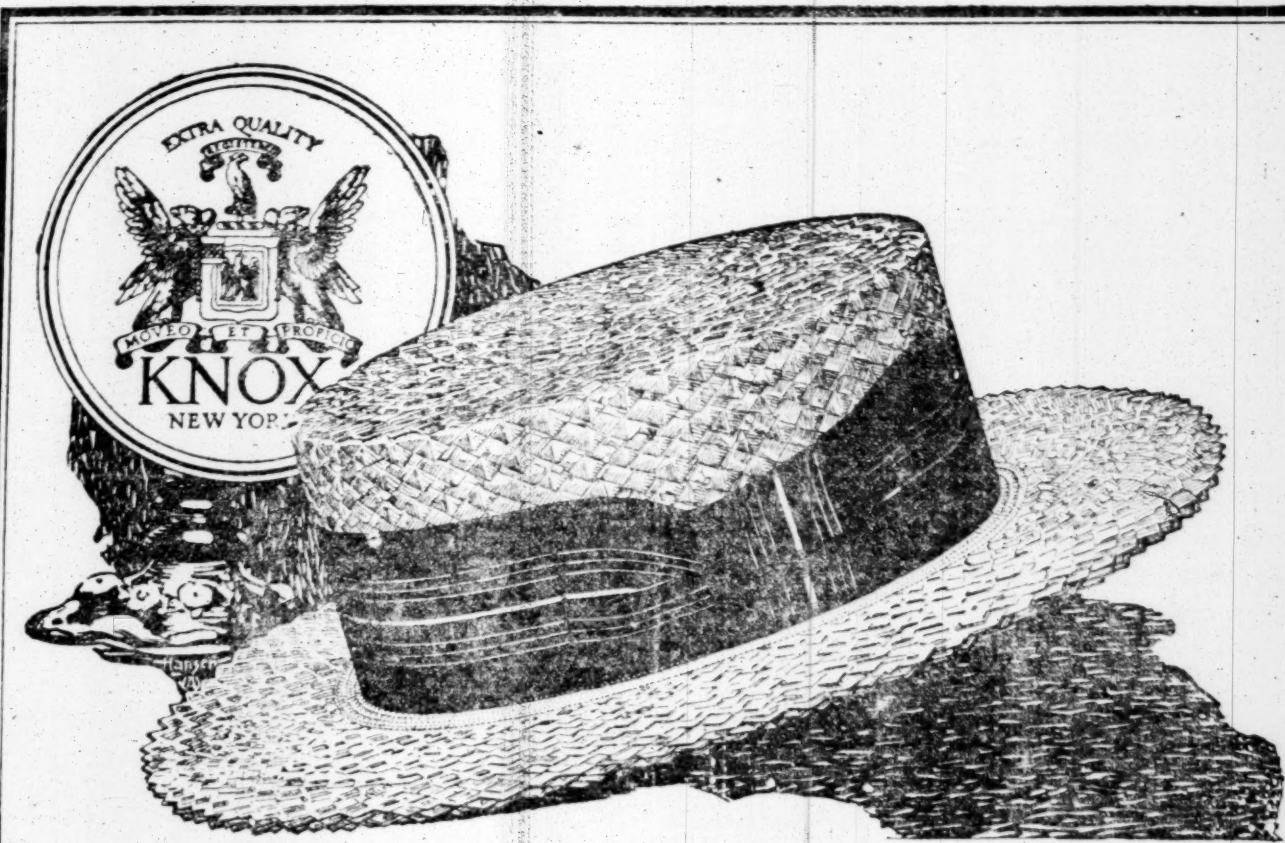

"During the entire life of our government," said Mr. Britten, "it has repeatedly been held that no man can serve two masters. "Treasury department officials at first said that they might enroll ten thousand volunteers under the executive order but now that a storm of protest is heard from all parts of the United States, these enforcement fanatics say they will cut down their appointments to the state of California, but my resolution will prevent even this silly step for the questionable enforcement of a silly law. "It would be much more to the credit of the treasury department if they would aim to promote a condition of 'temperance' throughout the United States instead of aiming to do the impossible and the quicker the present administration realizes it, the better for all concerned. "The Hill resolution forbids a federal officer to hold a state commission or a state officer to hold a federal commission. Mr. Hill said he would press his resolution unless the presidential order was revoked. Representative Curry (Rep., Cal.) speaking in the house, denounced the Coolidge order as unlawful for in connection with prohibition enforcement in California. "We have in California," he said

"a very strict state prohibition enforcement act. Our state officers diligently perform their duties in this respect, but they work within the confines of their own jurisdiction. They have other duties besides the enforcement of prohibition to perform, and they perform their duties efficiently and well. "Our California peace officers are second in efficiency and courtesy to none in the country. We are getting along very well, thank you, without the interference or exercise of an unsolicited unconstitutional supervisory power by a smug bureaucrat from the state of New York.

"It might be less objectionable to Californians if Gen. Andrews would impose this militaristic bureaucratic order on his own state of New York. Mr. Mellon's state of Pennsylvania, and the President's state of Massachusetts, are object to being pointed out as the particular bad boy state of the Union and made to stand in the corner with our face to the wall. "The order is as unconstitutional as it is unjust, as vicious as it is wrong. It is utterly contrary to the fundamental principles of the American government and it must not be permitted to stand."

WEARING the Knox "Comfit" you'll never worry about the fit of your straw hat—for its inner brim of soft woven straw conforms to the shape of your head—and makes it rest as light as you could wish.

A patented feature is the few rows of flexible braid deftly woven into the brim where it touches your head, which makes it the most comfortable of smart looking straw hats.

HE TRIBUN

GERMANY TALKS CASH TO FRANCE FOR FREE RHINE

Would Sell Reparations Railway Bonds.

BY JOHN STEELE

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
LONDON, May 25.—The Tribune is informed that Germany is preparing in a few days to approach France with a proposal to pay off the reparations with ready money if the sum is secured sufficiently to make financing possible in return for the immediate cessation of the Rhine plan.
The scheme has been brewing for a long time and is back of the amazing improvement in the Franco-German relations, which were instigated at the Geneva economic conference.

Cash Talk Pleases France.
Now that the German disarmament officially is acknowledged by the allied powers, nothing remains to prevent the freeing of the German territory from the troops of occupation but the Germans believe that France's need for immediate hard cash will make it willing to come to a fair agreement for turning the German debt into money.

Herr Von Hoesch, the German ambassador to Paris, is said to be the most popular diplomat visiting Quai d'Orsay because he comes talking ready money. The German proposal, if the French agree to reduce the total sum, is to capitalize the annuities immediately, using the reparations railroad bonds as security. The French government believes it could place a large number of these bonds with its own investors if they were backed by a government guarantee.

Others Anxious to Withdraw.
This would pay off Germany's principal debtor, and little difficulty is expected in satisfying the others, who would be pleased enough with any excuse to withdraw their troops from the Rhine.
London financial circles are satisfied with the scheme, but are inclined to believe nothing can be done until the French currency is stabilized. Dr. Schacht, president of the reichsbank, will arrive in London tonight to discuss the situation with Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England. Germans Deny Revision.

BERLIN, May 25.—The discussions which Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, will have in London this week with Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, and Benjamin Strong Jr., governor of the Federal Reserve Bank, New York, are declared in official circles here to be one of the periodical conferences between representatives of the world's leading banks and with no special political significance. They insist there is no foundation for reports that Germany intends to suggest immediate revision of the Dawes reparation plan.

It is added that although German politicians and financiers are convinced it will be found the Dawes plan cannot be carried out in its present form, the German government will not plead for its revision, but will leave it to the other side to recognize the advisability of revising it.

CITY PUBLIC SCHOOLS TO GRADUATE 23,373 STUDENTS THIS YEAR

Graduates from the Chicago public schools next month will number 23,373. It was estimated yesterday by Ewald Lehr, statistician in the educational department. The number who will finish courses next month exceeds that of 1925 by approximately 800. The courses and the totals of pupils to be graduated from them are as follows:

Elementary schools 14,375
High school general course 2,363
High school, non-vocational course 1,202
Two-year vocational 2,332
Junior high schools 1,041
Junior schools (2 years only) 175
Fire men's business course 133
Pre-vocational 322
Normal college 325

The cost of educating pupils in the public schools, exclusive of funds invested in new buildings, totaled $104,191 per child for 1925-'26, as compared with $103,14 for the previous year, it was shown.

The membership in the system for 1925-'26 was 416,184, while during the previous school year it was 404,482.

NELSON, SLOAN TILT HOTLY ON GRAFT CHARGES

Ald. Oscar F. Nelson (46th) and John J. Sloan, president of the board of local improvements, clashed yesterday over charges of graft in building Wacker drive, and passed the lie. A council investigation will result.

The tilt occurred at a meeting of the council streets and alleys committee. Declaring that Sloan is head of the Wisconsin Granite company and that his relatives operate the Universal Granite company, the alderman said there was no city outlay for granite screenings before he came into office. "You're a liar," shot out Sloan, rising.

"And you are a double liar," the alderman retorted. "You can't build a road without granite." Sloan answered: "You have made no definite charges. Why don't you?"

The tumult that followed was finally quieted by Chairman D. A. Horan (21st).

Although Ald. Nelson had asked for an investigation by directors of the city club, the committee voted to ask a subcommittee to look into the charges and make a report.

LADY SUFFOLK TO REVEAL INSIDE OF LEITERS' DISPUTE

Judge Decides She May Tell Her Story.

"What treatment have you received from your brother, Joseph Leiter, and your sister, Mrs. Colin Campbell?" That question, which aroused a storm of protests from lawyers at the first day of the hearing of the Leiter case, some three months ago, will be answered today by Lady Margaret Hyde, Countess of Suffolk, as the result of a surprise decision yesterday by Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan.

For the first time the personal note will be injected into the suit in which Lady Suffolk seeks to remove Leiter as trustee of their father's $30,000,000 estate. In contrast with the mass of dry testimony which has hitherto occupied the hearing is expected to come the interesting story of the countess' version of the split between herself and her brother.

Judge Sullivan decided that he had erred in refusing to allow Lady Suffolk to tell of her personal relations with Leiter and her sister. The decision was a surprise to every one in the case. It came just as Attorney Frank H. Scott, chief counsel for Lady Suffolk, had completed the submission of evidence for the plaintiff. The judge called the lawyers forward.

"On the first day of the trial an objection was sustained to a certain question," he said. "I have decided to reverse myself and permit the question to be answered. It is my desire that nothing that may have any bearing on the case be kept out; or that the decision in this case be affected by a technicality."

Her Answer Refused Before. Every one knew what question was meant. When it had been asked of the smiling countess on the first day of the hearing a crowded courtroom had hung upon her answer. She, with the rest, had been visibly disappointed when Judge Sullivan, after listening to Russell Platt, representing Leiter, had refused to permit her to answer. In the last few minutes of the session yesterday Lady Suffolk's counsel scored when they introduced a letter from Gerard B. Lawrence, London solicitor for Lady Suffolk and the Curzon family, to Joseph Leiter. The letter was a lengthy epistle and it contained in courteous phrases the hope that a settlement of differences between the countess and Leiter might be made without litigation. Across the top of the letter, Joseph Leiter had scrawled this notation for an answer: "The only settlement will be Daisy's (Lady Suffolk's) resignation or removal from the trusteeship."

AUTOCRATIC UNIONISM.

The predicament of industrial Britain, especially since the war and at this time in the coal strike, gives much matter for pondering in our own country. In the coal industry of Great Britain the struggle in its most unrelenting aspect is a struggle by employers to reduce an irreducible wage and by labor to seize a nonexistent profit. Between these two incompatible policies the life of the industry itself must be inevitably destroyed. This is a fatal conclusion for all British economic prosperity so that since, within the coal industry, matters had reached an impasse, it was necessary that the government should intervene in the common interest of the nation.

How this situation has come about we do not propose to discuss here. Both the employers' lack of foresight and of sound policy and that of the employers offer lessons which we in America, and especially intelligent labor, can well afford to study. The main current of union policy in Great Britain has been, in our opinion, unsound, not merely from the viewpoint of the economic welfare of the nation, but even from that of the welfare of labor. The key of that policy has been reduction of output. Organization has been developed to the highest point and with it has come an overmastering control of industrial method and result. With dominating power and a policy striking at the vitals of industrial success, the result could only be progressively ruinous.

The beneficent accomplishment of unionism in our country has been progressive improvement of the conditions of work and raising of the standard of living. But this accomplishment has been possible partly through wise policy and partly because organization has not been able to maintain automatic methods on a large scale, as in British industry. Organization has not been strong enough, and in many cases has been too wise to attempt to use reduction of output, as (any) as a method of forcing increase of wages or punishing management. Where organization has been in essential control of an industry with its power virtually unchecked, as it is to great extent in Great Britain and in certain industries, such as coal, in the United States, it has gone a long way toward destroying the industry controlled, that is, it has committed suicide.

This is a lesson for American labor, as well as for the American public generally, whose opinion has much to do with the success or restraint of industrial policy. An American, observing the industrial difficulties of Britain, has pointed out that the American workman has learned that it is production which pays his wages, whereas the British workman still thinks it is his employer that pays it. To the extent that this is true of American labor, and happily for us all it is to a great extent true, American industry has prospered and progressed, carrying labor up with it. But where organization has dominated and adopted the suicidal method of reducing the very profit of which it was demanding a larger share, it has cut the ground from under its own feet and destroyed itself along with the industry.

American industry has been able to escape the perils of autocratic organization with self-destructing policies. Unchecked power has been able to protect and advance the conditions and wages of labor because it has not destroyed the ability of industry to improve the one and advance the other. British organization has not only gained a far greater control of industry, but it has abused its power and prevented the industrial progress and prosperity which are labor's only hope of its own progress and prosperity.

We think that in America both employers and employees are enlarging their conceptions of mutual responsibility and common interest in a fairly shared prosperity, and this is the best guaranty of our common welfare. Unchecked power on either side is evil to both sides. It is American industry's good fortune to have permitted the healthy growth of industry in most cases, with results as beneficial to labor as to management and invested capital. Where it has not developed, that industry is on the downgrade.

SOLDIER AND CIVILIAN.

Gen. Andrews says he does not intend to use local agents as federal agents except in certain districts or special cases. We do not think such an assurance will quiet protest against the President's extraordinary order. If it is proper for Gen. Andrews to possess the power sought to be vested in him by this order, it is proper for him to use it as he conceives it his duty to do, but whether he does or not, it is not an acceptable answer to objections to his plan, that it will not be used except in a few districts or against a few alleged offenders. The scope of executive discretion, as we have repeatedly pointed out, has got beyond all decent bounds, if only through the existence of so many laws that legal enforcement is an administrative impossibility and selection a necessity. We are drifting or being carried by impulsive headlines of one wise constitutional principle far away from the American ideal of a government of law and not of men.

This is a tendency a soldier, we would remind the President, is not likely to resist. Gen. Andrews is a conscientious man and a good soldier.

A soldier is full of zeal for carrying out orders: "His not to reason why; his but to do and die." A soldier's training is all for action, for the executive function.

It is inevitable therefore that in dealing with problems of civil government he should have little regard for those checks upon executive power which the wise foresight and thorough understanding of the founders sought to create. Thus in civil affairs the soldier is very likely to defeat his own simple and sincere purpose by ignoring fundamental issues of civil policy and assuming that methods acceptable in the necessities of war or of critical emergency—and properly only then when well defined—are otherwise acceptable. Gen. Andrews has proposed some very offensive legislation recently and he is contributing, in good conscience and soldierly zeal, to the revolt against Volsteadism. Those who wish for modification at any price will be glad of this, but it is not pleasant to consider that a considerable body of Americans, including some very highly placed, seem to have as little regard for constitutional distinctions and as little fear of confusing them as Gen. Andrews.

THE POLISH CRISIS.

Marshal Pilsudski has assumed "special dictatorial powers" until the constitution of Poland can be modified to meet his conception of the country's needs. Pilsudski for a time contemplated having the constituent assembly elect him president before he undertook governmental reforms; now he proposes to make the changes first and hold the election afterward.

Pilsudski wants to strengthen the executive arm of the Polish government. He has observed the inability of previous governments, however well intentioned, to cope with problems as they arose. The executive was dependent on a parliament which, in turn, was composed of a score of shifting parties. The difficulty of devising policies acceptable to a dozen divergent groups was great, but the difficulty of retaining any executive in office long enough to accomplish much for Poland was even greater. Poland is a young country, containing men of many races and languages. Its foreign relations are as delicate as those of any country in Europe. Its finances have been the cause of much anxiety. It has great natural resources but it needs capital to develop them. Large sections of the population are illiterate. Poland needs a strong government.

Americans will find it easy to sympathize with Poland in her present difficulties. In the first years of our national existence we set up a government which was weak and incompetent. We were blessed with as brilliant a set of statesmen as any nation has ever had, but all their talents were required to save us from chaos. They saw the importance of creating a strong executive who would not be subject to the passing whims of politics. If they had been less astute, we, too, might have had to choose between disintegration and a dictatorship.

Pilsudski, apparently, is unwilling to call parliament together until his work of reorganizing the government has been completed. He fears the politicians. What changes he proposes to make and present as an accomplished fact are not yet announced. It is clear that he is dissatisfied with the constitutional system of parliamentary government. He may decide to set up a dictatorship such as Mussolini's. Perhaps he will be content to take a position midway between the two and attempt to adapt the American theory of a semi-independent executive to Poland's needs. Our system has its faults but its record of performance, year in and year out, is unequalled.

TIGHT FISTS FOR CLENCHED FISTS.

Thousands of communists marched in military formation in Berlin on a recent Sunday. Sixty thousand spectators cheered. The parade was four miles long. Stands of red flags placed at intervals along the line of march were greeted with the new communist salute, the salute of the clenched fist. The leaders of German communism led at the head of the procession, beside delegates sent from Moscow. Cheers, translated as "Hail, Moscow" and "Hail, German soviet republic!" were given in honor of the leaders.

The clenched fist and the hail Moscovs are not calculated to convince American investors of the safety of foreign securities. Germany, as past war governments and nations go, is relatively stable. German borrowers are sincere in their promises to repay. American investors, however, will scarcely be blamed if they show a reluctance about sending their money to countries where considerable numbers of people are looking to Moscow for light and leading. The answer to the clenched fist is the tight fist.

Editorial of the Day

DEMOCRACY NEEDS THE TWO PARTY SYSTEM.

[Kansas City Star.]

The experience of Poland is another demonstration of the fact that democracy is in trouble when it depends on a two party system. In Poland, as in Italy, Spain, France and Germany, the parliament has been the victim of block. Thirteen different parties are represented in the Polish parliament. These parties have been unable to get together on any governmental program. In consequence government has become a standstill. It could not do the most elementary activities.

At the same time the country has been suffering a severe economic depression. Industries have been forced to close. Men have been out of work. The currency, stabilized two years ago, has smashed again. The government has been helpless.

The prevalent discontent gave an opportunity for the rise of Marshal Pilsudski, to march on the capital, overthrow the administration and take charge. Similar conditions in Italy and Spain resulted in dictatorships. In France and Germany, while warring blocs have not resulted in collapse, they have threatened at times to paralyze governmental activities.

If democratic government is to work it must have authority and stability. These qualities are obtained by the two party system. Once that is broken down, democracy is threatened with disaster.

MORE PAY FOR THE PASTOR.

[Illinois State Journal, Springfield.]

Will H. Hays, master of the movie business, is a Presbyterian layman of no small consequence. Mr. Hays heads a committee that has undertaken to raise a fund of fifteen million dollars with which to establish a system of pensions for ministers of the denomination. Addressing a large number of Presbyterian business men in Chicago, he declared that adequate salaries and assurance of retirement pensions for the ministers will produce an awakening in the world of religion. The compensation the church provides for its ministers, he said, is simply a pittance. The church in this country today is simply able to furnish the money, says Mr. Hays. Failure to do so characterizes as little short of treason to the cause.

CULTIVATING THE ART OF SPITTING.

H. A. G. writes: I note from your health articles that you have put your broad, sanitary foot down on spitting in public. Spitting is not an art, but a habit—one that has existed from the beginning of time. Man is the only animal so brought as to be afflicted with it. In all parts of the world, among some people, this time-honored habit rises to the dignity of the chief indoor sport. In the great outdoors it is worse than golf, in that it disfigures the landscape. Many other wise respectable best citizens of Main street regard it as their inalienable right, under the constitution, to spit at libitum, on the floor or carpet. For spitting, all places a spittoon, all seasons open.

It is impossible to break up a habit of long years standing. Why struggle against destiny? The thing to do is to train this habit. Let it evolve into an art—the gentle art of hitting the bull's eye of the spittoon every time. Only about six generations of intensive training would be required.

I therefore venture to urge that you organize the spittoon spitting association. Accuracy is the word. A straight shot on the spittoon is an important. Accuracy in the even more destroys, in the other, it conserves and saves soap. Therefore, follow the line of most resistance to the spittoon. Recorded history for a thousand years shows that nothing has been done in the past to advance the gentle and neglected art of expectation. If you expect to raise as a first class reformer, here is your chance. No charge is made for the suggestion.

REPLY: I have thought about your proposal a good deal. Began nearly 20 years ago. One day the mayor of the city where I was health commissioner summoned me to his office. A delegation of men from another city were there to talk over matters that had some health aspect. The health officer, the mayor had sent for the health officer.

One of the visiting aldermen persisted in spitting on the very handsome rug. It was true it was not very bad spit, being the by-product of a "hunk" of "Navy," but it did not look good on the rug. The spittoon was enough of a mark to hit the rug. I suggested to the mayor's private secretary, that we should have a spittoon in the city hall.

CANCELED INSURANCE.

Galesburg, Ill., May 22.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—If a person takes out life insurance and at the time it is written does not pay the first premium, but gives the local agent a personal note for the first payment, what action can the insurance company or the local agent take if after making out the personal note the insured is not able to pay the premium?

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 26, 1861.

WASHINGTON.—The steamer Yankee arrived from Fort Monroe bringing the report that Gen. Butler captured 100 prisoners of war, 34 men killed and wounded, 100 lost between 300 and 400 killed and wounded and approximately 600 were taken prisoner.

WASHINGTON.—Col. E. E. Ellsworth, commander of the New York Fire Zouaves, who was killed by a shell fragment when he was hurled from the flag in Alexandria, was buried from the executive mansion here. The house was followed by the Zouaves, among whom was the man who avenged Col. Ellsworth's death, carrying the identical coffin flag torn down by Col. Ellsworth. Then followed the President, Lincoln, Secretaries Seward and Fish, and other government and army officials. All bells were tolled and all flags at half mast and draped in mourning.

CHICAGO.—The Yates Phalanx adopted this resolution on the death of Col. Ellsworth: "Resolved, That we accept the sad event as an intimation that it was the will of Providence that Chicago should furnish the first distinguished victim to be offered as a sacrifice for the salvation of our beloved country, and that the name of the gallant Ellsworth shall be henceforth a watchword and a rallying sign to the armies of freedom and that we be associated in history with that of Warren whose blood baptized the first battlefield of the revolution."

CAIRO.—The news of Col. Ellsworth's death made a profound impression and a strong desire among the Illinois troops for a triumph over the rebels. Because of the threatening movements of Gen. Pillow in Tennessee it is probable the desire will be gratified earlier than many people have expected.

WASHINGTON.—A gentleman who arrived from Alexandria says that Ellsworth's Fire Zouaves have commenced executing their threat of vengeance for his death. They have already shot three violent secessionists. Alexandria people who are sympathizers with James W. Jackson, the murderer of Col. Ellsworth, have been compelled to flee for their lives.

GAFFNEY, S. C.—As a result of one of the most bitter political feuds ever known in the South, United States Senators Benjamin R. Tillman and John L. MARY.

WE DIDN'T see Alice of old Vincennes when we were down there, but we did see Mary of old Vincennes. And we liked Mary much better because sweet Alice always gave us a pain in the neck. (When we meet the Indiana authors down at Culver next Saturday we'll deny this or blame it on S. L.) Mary of old Vincennes makes book rugs and raises vegetables for the elite of the city. She is a dear, old fashioned soul and she wears black taffeta waists with leg of mutton sleeves and her faded blue cotton skirts sweep the ground. Whenever Mary, in her neat but archaic gown, goes into Vincennes, have kneed dappers grow pale underneath their coating of rouge and fly screaming down the street.

MARY talks in the high, shrill voice of the Hoosier pioneer. She's bought her little home and the small farm attached out of her savings, and, by heck, she owns a Ford in which she rides proudly around on Sunday. We asked Mary why she didn't take vegetables to town in the Ford. We almost got turned out of the house. Mary has a philosophy of her own. "There's only two real things in life," said she, "eatin' and sleepin'. Everything else is just habit." Well, Mary of old Vincennes, maybe you're right at that.

THE DUKE TAKES THE MA IN LAW TO A CABARET.

Deer Dick: We took the ma in law to a cabaret last night and I wanna tell ya 'im sorry I didn't buy a house 'n' lot instead. This only difference between those places an' an outside suburb is, they don't take furs 'n' jewelry. Can ya imagine, payin a truck for a hole of common ice? I was thinkin it was a dam good thing they didn't put a price on it. I s'pose wood be about 3 1/2 bucks. I certainly feel sorry for the owners; juse think, ev'ry time a guy orders a pint of gingerale they only get $1.50, an' the beer is a throw muss be tremendous. A guy by the name of Resolved was gonna occupy all the good tables, but it seems he didn't show up, so after a few hours this head waiter gave us wun of his tables, with the splined four times was the best table in the place. From now on I will never occupy a ring side seat again of the B. and O. is with me. A dumb bumb, who I use to know in that old days, who I think had a few under her belt, stops in front of our table, an' after finishin a song sumthin about, "Mamma Got Blues," she pipes up with, "Well, if it ain't the ole Dookieeie!" They should teach that bird the song "Old Acquaintance" should be "I know her from my mother's mother use to wash for us, with good over with the ma in law, but the B. and C. says, "We will go into this matter more thoroughly when we get home." After settin' this up with a Chinese laundry ticket, I left a bunk on the plate for the waiter. He said "Thank you," but the look on his face said, "Drop dead." After giving the guy 2 bits for openin' the car door, I kept the money an' started, and I wished I wood of kept the money an' given him the car instead.

THE THOUGHTFUL ANGLER.

Menasha, Wis., May 24.—The fishing season will soon be open. Thousands of Chicagoans will do their fishing in the clear, spring fed lakes and streams of northern Wisconsin, Michigan, and Minnesota. Some are already whipping their flies across the surfaces of northern trout streams.

Trout fishermen are usually sportsmen. They use light tackle and give their fish a fair chance to fight for freedom. But the same cannot always be said of the anglers for bass, pike, and muskellunge, although they adhere to the laws limiting their catch.

Trout eggs have been successfully hatched and the young trout reared for use in fish hatcheries until large enough to fight for themselves. As long as the streams remain unimpaired, there will not be a shortage of this game species.

As yet a successful method has not been found for the artificial hatching of bass, pike, or muskellunge eggs. Each year the southern boundary of the law allows, he will be content with one every two days. Anglers, please be thoughtful.

CROWDING AT AUSTIN HIGH.

Chicago, May 26.—I am writing in regard to the crowded conditions at the Austin High school. The present school was built to accommodate 1,500 pupils and now there are 4,000. Imagine your children being packed at 8 o'clock! This is what has to be done, as the school is operated in shifts. Instead of so much fuss being made to obtain a new school all the efforts should be put forth to get a school.

Of course, there are always some who will object to the location, but why not have the majority rule? What Austin needs is a new school on the present site and one north of Chicago, avenue. If this could be obtained Austin will be a better city and the board of education will be relieved of all complaints.

Chicago, May 19.—I wish to commend your paper for its splendid editorials on a park for the north shore. This is the opportune time to agitate for this wonderful beauty spot before the encroachment of industry and while it is still in its natural state. I have on several occasions passed through this wonderful tract and have marveled at its rustic beauty. Many factors realize the worthiness of this project and counsel to action at the earliest opportunity for a deserving people in this corner of our state.

INCIDENT ON THE ELEVATED.

Chicago, May 22.—When riding downtown on the elevated express train this morning from Belmont avenue station I noticed one couldn't understand the guard half way down the car when he called out the stations. In going out I mentioned to him that I couldn't understand any station he called, and he answered, "What in hell, do you think I am going to holler my head off?" This condition prevails to a great extent all over the elevated railroad on the north side.

THE CURB.

Chicago, May 17.—I would like to congratulate the Cubs on the last few games which I have seen. I think McCarthy has developed a pennant-winning team. Take Cooper's corner, for instance. In my opinion, he is one of the best shortstops in either league today. Last Friday I was sitting in the sun-bathers and somebody started to talk about "Spooky." Almost every one sitting around me said this middle ball player could play rings around Frankie Frisch of the Giants, and I agree with them. Look at the batting and fielding averages of the outfield. Cliff Heathcote and Scott, two of the fastest men in the league, and I guess every one knows that Huck Wilson, the mighty, and Charlie Grimm, the first sacker, can hit the ball in the pinches and can field very well, and after he gets his eyes on the ball, the faster he will be rated as one of the best third basemen in either league. The two catchers are very good, as every one knows. The pitching staff is also very good.

Woe's the trouble up the court, Mrs. White?—Nothin' much. Only the furniture man come for 'is easy payment.'

This chart shows comparative weekly circulations of various New York newspapers, from their statements for the six months' period ending March 31, 1926.

Average Circulations of The News—April 1926
DAILY - - 1,071,176 SUNDAY - - 1,275,698
These are the largest circulations in America.

The News, New York's Picture Newspaper sells more than a million copies every day - -

You may not even know The News.

But this morning, in New York City and its suburbs, out of every hundred people who bought an English language morning paper, forty-six of them were News buyers. Approximately every fourth adult person you meet or do business with in New York City is a News buyer. At least every other family has one or more members who read The News. Aside from breathing, eating, sleeping, riding on the subway, and a few other essential individual functions, The News is New York's most universal reading habit. Certainly, it is New York's most universal reading habit. As such, if you are doing business in New York, you should know The News to realize the influence of this new and altogether different type of newspaper—which has grown from nothing to more than a million copies a day within seven years. As a business man, you must appreciate the strength of The News as a great advertising medium, the strongest single selling force in New York.

It reaches more people. No other New York morning paper comes within a half of The News million circulation. The largest evening circulation is more than 300,000 copies behind the News. It reaches more kinds of people. It is read by more men and by more women than any other New York newspaper. Its circulation embraces more of the rich and poor, more of the native and foreign born, than any other newspaper's. It has more readers in any locality or neighborhood than any other single newspaper. It covers your actual and potential customers most thoroughly, most comprehensively.

There are about six million people in New York City proper, and almost ten million in the city and suburbs—all customers of somebody. There are about 14,000 independent grocery dealers, almost 4,000 drug stores, about 3,000 dry goods stores, and almost 1,000 hardware stores, in New York City alone—all outlets for somebody's merchandise. These retailers average more customers per store than retailers in any other part of the country. The Marvelous Million circulation of The News reaches a majority of all your customers and a majority of all your retailer's customers. So you must use The News for essential coverage, to sell the whole market!

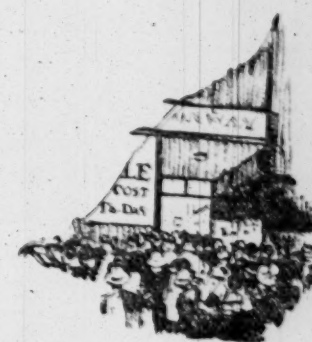

Furthermore, The News presents your advertising message more effectively—because the small tabloid page gives the reader less to see, the small tabloid paper carries less to read. Greater visibility, higher reader attention—and lower cost! Don't close your Fall advertising schedule without giving The News the fullest consideration as a more efficient, money-saving medium for the New York market. A letter or phone call will bring a salesman who knows the market as well as the medium. Get the facts.

25 PARK PLACE, NEW YORK

Tell It to Sweeney!

—the Stuyvesants don't care

Too many advertisers select media with the idea of placing their sales message before the prospects who have money, rather than before those who want and need the advertised articles.

The advertising tries to call on the Stuyvesants on Exclusive Avenue, while the salesmen get their orders from the little stores that sell the Sweeneys on Any Street. The class market, in New York or anywhere else, is not only oversold, but frequently too little interested. It is human nature to be ungrateful about what one has, but eager and interested in what one hasn't. When the income passes a certain point, the catalogue of material wants lessens. To the chronic rider on balloon tires, there is nothing of less consequence than an advertisement for rubber heels.

THE price cut in Dodge or Nash cars, and the A.Y.D. policy of Hudson-Essex, is news, and an inspiration, to the Sweeneys, but to the Stuyvesants, who already have a higher priced car, it is insignificant. Mr. Sweeney will take kindly to the suggestion that he try a Lucky Strike, Camel, Chesterfield cigarette, or Admiration cigar. Mr. Stuyvesant is satisfied with the kind he already has. To one the good looks and good values that are found in Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes, Stetson hats or Walk-Over shoes are highly interesting; to the other, with his own tailor, hatter, boot-maker, they are of no concern. Never in his wildest moment would Mr. Stuyvesant think of approaching the Morris Plan Bank for a loan, or the Loyal Order of Moose for companionship. To Mr. Sweeney these institutions have considerable appeal.

Both their wives are interested in clothes, but one buys, at Certain Shops, what is being worn in her set, while the other checks the local advertising columns beforehand. To Mrs. Stuyvesant, as long as the housekeeper or cook in on the job, the merits of Borden's milk or White Rose Tea, or Kellogg's Cornflakes, or Heinz Baked Beans, or Kraft Cheese, Ward's bread, the cooking qualities of Mazola, or flavor of Eatinor cranberries, the health elements of Fleischmann's yeast, or Sun Maid raisins, the suitability of Lux for lingerie or Lint for table-cloths are not pertinent. To Mrs. Sweeney, who is faced with ever present problems of feeding and caring for a growing family on a moderate income, they are vital issues. She must think about such things.

When the lady in the big house wants to keep That Schoolgirl Complexion she visits a specialist; Mrs. Sweeney goes to the corner druggist and invests in Palmolive and Pompeian; in Wildroot, Forhan's, Colgate's preparations and Gainsborough hair nets. Acolian player pianos and Columbia graphophones to one family are something to work for; to the other, they are taken for granted. And although one family may wonder What's Wrong Here, they will never send for the Book of Etiquette to find out; the other will gratefully mail the coupon.

The vocabulary of the Stuyvesants probably does not know the words Coca Cola, Baby Ruth, Dixies, or Wrigley's; but to the younger Sweeneys these are symbols of pleasure.

DO not make the mistake of under-estimating the capacities of the mass market, the Sweeneys as customers. Henry Ford turned out his millionth vehicle in December, 1915, and his ten millionth in 1924! Has your firm been able to sell ten million units priced from $200 to $1,000 in the last decade and a half? When you advertise in New York, tell it to Sweeney in The News. The Marvelous Million circulation—largest in America—will carry your sales message to receptive and interested prospects; will carry it effectively because of the high attention value of the tabloid page, and economically, because small space can do a good job in a small paper.

This is the third of the Sweeney series—messages to advertisers on the mass market of New York. A request on your business letterhead will bring the whole series. Or phone Barclay 3500 in New York, or Superior 0100 in Chicago.

FRANCE SPURNS KRIM'S PLEA FOR PEACE IN RIFF

BY HENRY WALES.

(Copyright, 1926, by The Chicago Tribune.)
PARIS, May 25.—The French cabinet today turned a deaf ear to Abdel Krim's plea to suspend hostilities. The Spanish are certain to follow suit.

The Tribune learns the French ministers were assured by their military advisers that they are betting on a "sure thing" in presenting a stiff front to the rebel chieftain.

Calls Krim's Note Vague.
A renewal of the negotiations is certain to raise a storm, it was said. Hence Premier Briand's snappy statement following the meeting of the cabinet that consideration of the hard pressed chieftain's letter is out of the question since it was vague and gave no proof that Krim still is the responsible leader of the rebels in Morocco.

Briand stated that obviously Krim's note was just another despairing attempt to gain time.

All this was based on authoritative information that Krim is at the end of his rope and assurance from the general staff that all will be over by Thursday.

KRIM'S FRIENDS QUIT

BY LORIMER HAMMOND.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LARACHE, Morocco, May 25.—Abdel Krim's own tribesmen are turning against him. The surest evidence that the end is near at hand came today with news from Targuist that part of Abdel Krim's own tribe, the Beni Ouragheles, are leading an attack upon his last stronghold on the heights of Djebel Hammam.

Not all the Beni Ouragheles have turned traitor. The veterans, including Sidi Mohammed Aoukane, Krim's brother-in-law and foreign minister, remain faithful. But a considerable portion of the tribe has gone over to the side of Krim's mortal enemy, Anwar Hamidi, who is promising them advantageous terms with a share in the mining exploitations if they desert Krim.

The Spanish plan to drive Krim into the domain of his old tribe, the Beni Ouragheles, where he will be treated merely as a tribal chief and not as the leader of the Rifian nation. Pierce fighting continues on the Tetuan front.

AWARD $10,000 TO FATHER FOR CHILD'S DEATH

What was termed by Superior Judge Joseph E. David as almost unprecedented verdict for $10,000 damages for the death of a child in an automobile accident was returned yesterday by a jury.

The verdict was in favor of Casimir Prandzik, 1752 West 18th street, for the death of his son, Stanley, 3 years old, killed March 30, 1925, when a truck owned by the Edward Hines Lumber company and driven by Gregory Maher, 4844 West Huron street, struck the child.

"It is the first case on record that I can remember where a verdict for the full amount of $10,000, the largest amount that can be given, was awarded," the judge said. "It reflects the public opinion that where automobiles and children are concerned, responsibility is on the driver."

RAIL WORKERS PREPARE TO ASK FOR HIGHER PAY

Cleveland, O., May 25.—Chief executives of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers today announced movements for increased wages. A Johnston, grand chief of the engineers, said a referendum vote of the membership favored the movement and three hundred general chairmen of the engineers, representing all roads in the United States and Canada, would meet here on June 2 to decide upon the procedure for presenting the requests.

D. B. Robertson, president of the firemen, said a subcommittee of twelve, representing the general chairmen, would meet here on the same date to discuss plans for handling the wage proposal.

All five transportation brotherhoods have now inaugurated wage increase requests. The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors presented joint demands several months ago for an increase of one dollar per day, and the Switchmen's Union of North America presented independent demands for a wage and changes in working rules.

Wrinkles Vanish While You Look!

Here, indeed, is something startlingly different and wonderful—removes wrinkles, age-lines, flabbiness, from your face in less than 15 minutes! Merely mix a spoonful of Powdered Tarkroot with a spoonful of lemon juice, smooth this soothing, creamy emulsion over your face, then sit down before your mirror and watch your countenance "grow young." A convincing experience, "seeing is believing." Lines and creases "melt away." This, the eyes. The action of this remarkable substance tends to obliterate marks of age, illness and worry, giving the face a most refreshed appearance, with a delicate girlish blush, and a beautifully rounded contour. It is wonderful also harmful effect whatever. Almost immediately after spreading the Tarkroot mixture over the face there's a pleasant tingling sensation, due to increased capillary circulation and a helpful influence upon the tiny facial nerves. Skin and features are so "firmed up" that double chin and baggy cheeks are materially reduced, as well as puffiness and lines under the eyes.

BILL TO SPEED FALL, SINCLAIR DOHENY TRI

Measure Designed to Mesh of Legal Ta

Washington, D. C., May 25.—With only a brief explanation and without record of debate, the Senate passed a bill to speed trial in the final prosecution against a fall, Has, at, as, ward H. in the Columbia. The bill, which is being considered by any act, is construed "to empower the Appeals of the District of Columbia to allow an appeal from an order entered in any criminal proceeding or to enter such appeal heretofore or to allow or to take."

The bill was introduced by Senator Walsh (Dem., Mo.) at the request of the government, who have been prosecuted growing out of the oil lease. It was reported to the Senate by the Judiciary Committee after a hearing on May 25, 1926, of the committee, who asked immediate passage.

An appeal from an order in a criminal case, said Senator Walsh, is a procedure in the federal system. It is believed that it is not a law and no reason appears to obtain in the District of Columbia.

BILL TO SPEED FALL, SINCLAIR, DOHENY TRIALS

Measure Designed to Cut Mesh of Legal Tape.

Washington, D. C., May 25.—(Special)—With only a brief explanation and without a record vote, the senate today passed a bill which is designed to speed up action in the criminal proceedings against Albert B.
Fall, Harry Sinclair and Edward H. Doheny in the District of Columbia courts.
The bill provides that nothing contained in any act of congress shall be construed "to empower the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia to allow an appeal from an interlocutory order entered in any criminal action or proceeding or to entertain any such appeal heretofore or hereafter allowed or taken."

A R. FALL, who has been prosecuting cases growing out of the oil lease scandals, it was reported to the senate today from the judiciary committee by Senator Cummins (Rep., Iowa), chairman of the committee, who asked for its immediate passage.

An appeal from an interlocutory order in a criminal case is an anomaly, said Senator Cummins. "No such procedure is authorized or tolerated in the federal system generally.
It is believed that it is sanctioned in few if any of the states; it was common law and no reason appears why it should obtain in the District of Columbia."

Promptness in the dispatch of criminal business of the courts is by all recognized as in the highest degree desirable. Greater expedition is demanded by a wholesale public opinion. If there is error in the action of the court in any interlocutory order it may be reviewed on appeal from the final judgment."

Mystery Body Found in Canal Still Unidentified

The police were still striving yesterday to establish the identity of a man about 40 years old, whose body with the hands bound was taken from the drainage canal at Summit on Sunday.
It is believed that he was murdered.
The body is one of seven now unidentified at the county morgue. Four were taken from the canal and three from the lake.

CUMMINS FACES FARM ANGER IN IOWA PRIMARY

May Suffer for Congress' Attitude, Not His Own.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Des Moines, Ia., May 25.—(Special.)—Agricultural discontent seems to be the pivot in the Republican primary battle over the senatorship now raging in Iowa. Senator Albert J. Cummins, who for a quarter of a century has served his state as governor and senator, has four opponents in the primary.

All are well equipped with planks and platforms, but as one of the wisest political old timers said:

"Here's the story in a nut shell: If Cummins were a hustler today there wouldn't be any political fighting in Iowa."

No Wet and Dry Issue.

The attitude of the Coolidge administration towards farm relief measures is the item that has the politicians jockeyed with mingled trepidation and hope. The wet and dry issue does not enter.

Cummins voted for the world court and Brookhart was anti-court, but no stress is being laid on this in the campaign.

Senator Cummins has not come to Iowa to make a speechmaking campaign. Mr. Brookhart is whooping it up. He says he was kicked out of the senate, ripped out of his seat, and that the voters of Iowa were thereby disfranchised. Governors and insiders in the various camps say that up to a week ago Brookhart had the advantage, but that a turning point has been reached.

Can Cummins Offset Farm Growth?

The core of the scrubbing is the general agricultural situation. Supporters of the Coolidge administration say frankly that the greatest weight Cummins has to carry is the Coolidge attitude toward farm relief measures.

Cummins himself, although an administration supporter on the world court, broke with the White House on farm policies. The Cummins people are shooting out copies of letters written by Chairman Haysen of the house committee on agriculture and others declaring that Mr. Cummins has been indefatigable in his aid of measures advocated by farm bill leaders.

QUESTION WOMAN ASKS COURT TO IN EVANSTON ON GUARD HIM FROM TAYLOR MYSTERY LOVING AMAZONS

Mrs. Dorothy H. Dahl, 1107 Church street, Evanston, was questioned yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney William H. Rittenhouse at the request of District Attorney Axel Kessel of Los Angeles, Cal., to determine whether or not she had any information of the murder in 1922 of William Desmond Taylor, Hollywood movie director.

Mrs. Dahl told the prosecutor that she has not been in California since March, 1919, and denied that she was the woman who lived in a Los Angeles hotel from Feb. 11 to 15, 1922. She said she was never acquainted with Taylor or his alleged murderer.

The interference of bystanders, he said, saved him.

Declaring that his charms have so fascinated two sisters that they have urged him to leave his wife and family and live with them, Frank Friedal, 908 Milwaukee avenue, yesterday filed a petition for protection in the Circuit court.

The sisters, Stefania Korotnik and Anna Brozowy, 4443 South Talman avenue, are so determined, Friedal asserted, that they tried to kidnap him at the point of a gun from his office at the Chicago Building and Loan association, 1712 South Ashland avenue, on May 20.

The interference of bystanders, he said, saved him.

JAIL LOOMS FOR EDITORS IN CASE OF WHITTEMORE

Published Pictures of the Trial Despite Orders.

Baltimore, Md., May 25.—(AP)—Substantial jail sentences, to be imposed next Tuesday, were promised today by Criminal Court Judge Eugene O'Dunne in contempt of court proceedings against three editors and two photographers of the Baltimore News and Baltimore American.

The papers published court room photographs of the Richard Reese Whittemore trial last week after Judge O'Dunne had directed an order from the bench forbidding the taking of pictures in the court room.

Back to Fifteenth Century.
A fifteenth century jailing of the Prince of Wales, later Henry V. of England, for disobedience of an order of the lord chief justice, was cited by counsel as precedent for the imposition of jail sentences on the newspapermen.

Harold E. Elliston, managing editor of the News, Harry Clark, city editor of the News, Earl C. Ireland, managing editor of the American, and William Klemm and William Sturris, photographers for the two papers, were cited for contempt by Judge O'Dunne and summoned to show cause why they should not go to jail.

Photographer Fools Judge.
Brought from his chambers by the boom of a flashlight on the opening day of the trial, Judge O'Dunne charged that Klemm gave him a blank plate when he attempted to confess the picture. Courtroom pictures were published by the News and the American after the judge had directed an order from the bench forbidding the taking of such photographs.

Austin High School Girl Gone; Boy, Too; Elop?

Detectives last night were seeking trace of Eleanor Heilmaster, 16 years old, daughter of Louis Heilmaster, 4402 Walton street, an employee of the State Bank of Chicago, who disappeared from her home on Monday under circumstances indicating an elopement. A junior at the Austin high school, when last seen, according to her friends, she was driving in an automobile with one of her recent admirers, Edward Toffel, 18, a graduate of the same school. The girl's father said he suspected the young couple have run away to get married.

ENJOINED CAFES PLAN TO FIGHT COURT'S ORDERS

Combat "Observation Evidence" Practice.

Attorneys William F. Waugh and Edwin L. West, both former house prosecutors under District Attorney Edwin A. Olson, yesterday began a study of law through which they, on behalf of cabaret owners, will resist Federal Judge Adam C. Cliffe's temporary injunctions on "observation evidence."

Three Under Ban.
According to court orders issued by Judge Cliffe Monday, the Friars Inn, the Town Club, and the Moulin Rouge were placed under temporary injunctions because Enforcement Chief R. Q. Merrick and four of his subordinates saw patrons of the three establishments pouring their own.

Have More Evidence.
Mary D. Bailey, assistant district attorney in charge of injunction proceedings, let it be known yesterday, however, that she is fortified with evidence of actual purchases of booze which the government claims to have made at the Friars Inn and the Moulin Rouge.

BOY DIES OF LOCKJAW.
Joseph Gaschka, 15 years old, 3417 West 34th street, died yesterday at the County Hospital of lockjaw contracted on Sunday while playing with his comrades.

YOUNG WOMAN'S DEATH BLAMED ON CHARLESTON

Overreaction in the mazes of the Charleston, at which she was an adept, is believed to have caused the death yesterday of Mrs. Bernice Plath, 23 years old, of 3226 Phillips avenue. She dropped dead late yesterday afternoon in the offices of the Burnham Oil company, 2221 Commercial avenue, where she was employed as a stenographer.

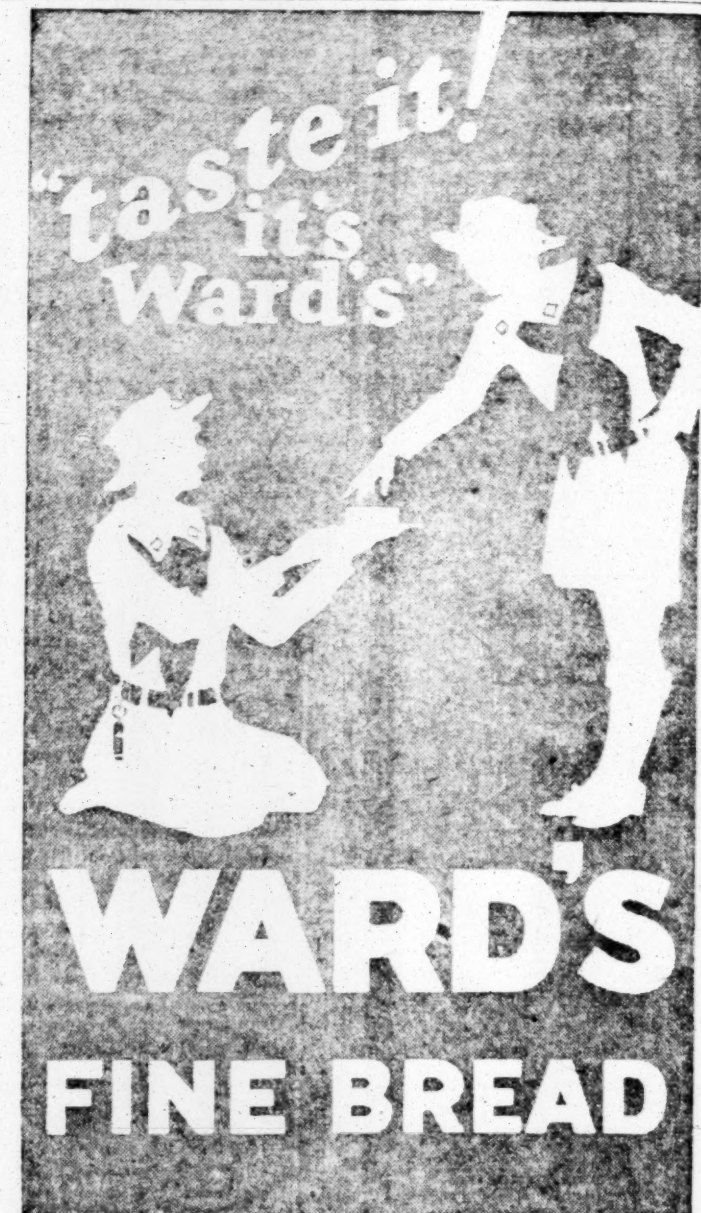

Mrs. Plath, who was estranged from her husband, had won a number of Charleston prizes recently. Only a few hours before she died she had made an engagement to dance last night in a local contest.

UNAUTHORIZED TAG DAY SALES TO BE STOPPED

Sale of tags by more than one charitable organization on the same day will be forbidden hereafter. Chief of Police Collins announced yesterday after an inquiry into a protest by the Chicago Federation of Aged and Adult Charities.

Mrs. A. H. Bumbach, president, complained that three other bodies sold tags Monday, cutting into the donations to the federation tag fund on that day.

Chief Collins found that only one of the three, the Walters A. M. E. Zion church, had been given a permit to sell tags Monday.

DAZED PILSUDSKI TRIES TO LAUGH OFF STATE CARES

Evades Queries of Yank
Correspondents.

BY FLOYD GIBBONS.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
WARSAW, May 25.—Marshal Jozef Pilsudski today was interviewed by American press representatives. The interview was arranged upon the intervention of an American minister, John H. Stetson Jr., and representatives of American financial groups in Warsaw, whose negotiations involving many millions of dollars have been left in the air as a result of the Pilsudski uprising.

The marshal received the newspaper men at the outer office of the war ministry. He wore an old, stained, and unpressed uniform, and appeared to be nervous and distraught.

"Well gentlemen, what do you want with me?" was the question with which he opened the meeting.

"You see, everything is all right," he continued. "Here I am. I am all right. My health is good and everything is well. You see I smile—I am gay. You have a camera there, why do not you photograph me when I am gay? I will laugh when you photograph me."

One photographer entered the room and the marshal posed for him six times, then gave a forced laugh into the lens of one of the correspondent's cameras, saying loudly, "All right," in English.

The marshal was asked why he began his march on Warsaw with 10,000 armed men.

"It simply was to make a protest against the immorality of the government," he replied.

"By force?" I asked him.

"Yes, by force," Marshal Pilsudski replied.

Sheds New Light on Revolt.

This is quite contrary to previous explanations by Marshal Pilsudski's aids, who have insisted that he marched on Warsaw to parade his troops in front of the president's palace and was shocked when the firing began.

"Would the marshal care to state what he decided to protest against?" I asked him.

"Against the immorality of the government," he repeated. "Against the slowness of the administration. Against the economic crisis. Against political corruption and useless talkative, do-nothing politicians."

"Have you any constructive policy for the new government?" I asked.

"Nothing but a change in the method of government to speed up administration affairs and abolish expensive bureaucrats," he said.

The marshal's attention was called to the statement by the government defending that parliament give the president power to dissolve the diet, and he was asked whether he would again resort to force if parliament refused the demand.

"If they refuse I know what to do," but there is no use discussing that until it occurs," he said.

"Are you a candidate for the presidency?" I asked.

"There are lots of candidates—at least ten," he answered.

When asked if he would speak about Polish-American relations he shook his head vigorously and left the room.

The correspondents departed wondering whether they had been talking to a man who does not know what it is all about.

An Interesting Advantage of

Survivorship Savings Accounts

not fully appreciated by many people

A Survivorship Savings Account with the Illinois Merchants Trust Company is an ideal arrangement for husband and wife, or for any two people whose interests are mutually dependent, because it permits either one to make withdrawals from the account at any time.

In case of the absence of either person, or in the event of accident or other emergency, the other still has free access to the account.

Likewise, upon the death of either person, the fund may be withdrawn by the survivor without probate proceedings.

The possession of ready cash, so important at such times, can be assured in no better way than through a Survivorship Savings Account.

Such an arrangement gives not only a sense of personal security but also the satisfaction of knowing you have provided an additional measure of protection for your dependents.

Our officers will be glad to explain to you in detail exactly how you would benefit from a Survivorship Savings Account in the Illinois Merchants Trust Company.

How COULD THE MOTH be made harmless? That was a question a group of men determined to answer.

Here was their idea—if woolen articles could be made as distasteful to moth-worms as cotton or paper, they would be as safe from moth-attack as cotton or paper.

Out of this thought, after eighteen months of experimenting, grew Larvex—that amazing liquid which, sprayed on anything woolen, makes it mothproof.

Before a bottle was sold, Larvex was tested for months more.

Hundreds of woolen samples were mothproofed with Larvex. These samples were kept covered with live moth-worms. The moth-worms died. Not one sample was eaten. Not one moth-worm took a single bite!

Remember, moth-worms do all the eating. Moths themselves are harmless. They merely lay the eggs which hatch into moth-worms.

Join the million women who mothproof their woolen things with Larvex. Use Lar-vex to mothproof—

When sprayed thoroughly, Larvex penetrates the wool fibres and becomes part of the cloth—the wool becomes as distasteful to moth-worms as cotton or paper. Then no moth-worm or carpet beetle will eat it. You don't have to pack articles away. Let clothes hang in the closet—always available, never wrinkled, free from odors. Larvex is odorless. Non-inflammable. One thorough spraying lasts an entire season.

HOW TO BUY LARVEX

If you have never used Larvex, first buy the combination package containing the improved Larvex Atomizer, $1.50. Then buy the re-fill sizes of Larvex only; the pint at $1, or if you have many things to mothproof, buy the 1/2 gallon at $3 or the gallon at $5. At drug, department, and furniture stores. William F. Mulvihill, state tentent of waterways, has considerable interest in the city. "I'm going to find out what this guy eats," announced John Toman yesterday. "I'm ask the city council tomorrow Corporation Counsel Bush to what the duties and powers of hill are."

"Talk about Samson of the days overturning temples and why, this Mulvihill has him four ways from a ducat. Take at what Mulvihill has overturned the city council. The city council passed it, the approved of it, and United States engineers gave a permit for construction. You might think except the President of the States or the congress could kibosh on that permit. But a nullified it."

"Then the sanitary district to lease some of its own land for pasture or something else. Mulvihill and says it can't be without my consent and the district applies to him for consent."

"About ten days ago I read newspaper that Mulvihill had a he did not know whether he approved of the straitening south branch of the Chicago. What do you think of that?"

"A few days later I read that hill was using some obstructive against the Robey street bridge south side. If this fellow has power over the city, the sanitary district, and the United States, I would like to know how much authority he has."

The activities of Mr. Mulvihill relative to each project, except Robey street bridge, have been in the Tribune. The state tentent of waterways suggests federal government that the Robey street bridge should be a couple of blocks to the east would destroy Robey street straight main artery.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

William F. Mulvihill, state superintendent of waterways, has aroused considerable interest in the city hall. "I'm going to find out what kind of meat this guy eats," announced Ald. John Toman yesterday. "I'm going to ask the city council tomorrow to order Corporation Counsel Busch to tell us what the duties and powers of Mulvihill are."

"Talk about Samson of the Biblical days overturning temples and the like," says Mulvihill, "I have him skinned four ways from a duce. Take a look at what Mulvihill has overturned."

"First came the Calumet harbor. The city council passed it, the mayor approved it, and United States army engineers gave a permit for the construction. You might think no one except the President of the United States or the congress could put the kibosh on that permit. But Mulvihill nullified it."

In Steps Mulvihill Again.

"Then the sanitary district wanted to lease some of its own land for a cow pasture or something else. In steps Mulvihill and says it can't be done without my consent and the sanitary district applies to him for consent."

"About ten days ago I read in a newspaper that Mulvihill had said that he did not know whether he would approve of the straightening of the south branch of the Chicago river. What do you think of that?"

"A few days later I read that Mulvihill was using some obstructive tactics against the Robey street bridge on the south side. If this fellow has a veto power over the city, the sanitary district, and the United States engineers, I would like to know how much more authority he has."

The activities of Mr. Mulvihill relative to each project, except the Robey street bridge, have been detailed in this Tribune. The state superintendent of waterways suggested to the federal government that the South Robey street bridge should be moved a couple of blocks to the east. That would destroy Robey street as a straight main artery.

Putnam Tells What's What.

Maj. Rufus W. Putnam, local federal engineer, indicated in a letter yesterday to President Sloan on the board of local improvements, that he would turn down Mr. Mulvihill's suggestion to move the bridge two blocks away from the street it is to serve.

In his letter, Maj. Putnam says: "Mr. Mulvihill states that the proposed location will restrict or interfere with free passage of vessels down the sanitary district canal and also along the west fork of the south branch of the Chicago river. In his opinion, from a navigation standpoint, a much better location would be found about two blocks east of Robey street."

Commenting upon the Mulvihill scheme, Maj. Putnam goes on: "I realize there is now no bridge across the drainage canal and the river between Ashland and Western avenues, a distance of a mile; and that so far as land transportation is concerned, a bridge at Robey street, midway between Ashland and Western avenues, is much more desirable than a location two blocks east of Robey street."

Basin Problem Is Solved.

The proposed location of the South Robey street bridge will cross a small part of the turning basin at that point. Maj. Putnam reckons that the span would cut off 1.33 acres of the basin, and he says in his letter that he is considering favorable recommendation on the bridge under the condition that the city acquire 2.09 acres at the north end but they are hanging about. The score was 3-2, but if it had been for one hit slip in the Cubs defense it is probable that the Pirates would have crossed the plate. It doesn't seem possible that the Cubs would drop a ball would drop a ball would drop a ball.

Pittsburgh's big champions knock the Cubs off yesterday afternoon.

It was as plain to see as a day in a window. It may be that a short fellow was observed kicking the ball around the streets of the no side last night. If so, it was a Sparky Adams getting even with himself, because he was the lad who dropped the ball.

Bruins Get Two Run Lead.

The Cubs were breezing along speedily when the sixth inning arrived. They were leading, 3 to 0, because the third inning, after two were out, saw Sparky's penguin slumped single to center after which Heathcote knocked the ball into right bleacher for a home run, driving Sparky in ahead of him. That was all the scoring that had been done, and with young Charley Root on second, going in nice style, it looked as if no others would be needed. Consequently there was no great variety felt by the joyous crowd when Max Carey opened the sixth inning with a single. In a moment he had been forced at second when this Sparky grabbed Rhine's roller and crashed it to Shannon. Nor was there any great fear felt when Carey followed this with a single to center that put Rhine on second with Carey on first and only one was out.

The Double That Failed.

The next batter hit one that should have wiped the Pirates out with no run counting. Wright was the hit and he smashed one right to Freig. There was the needed double play made in order. Freigau shot the ball to Rhine at second and all he had to do was grab it and then peg it to first. He failed to do this, and the Cubs were into him. Instead of getting a hit, he got no one out and the bases were filled.

Up came Pi Traynor and punched to right that sent Rhine's catcher home, tying the count. Wright went to third and Traynor took second on the peg to the plate. Up came Strout, Waner and hit a sacrifice fly. Heathcote that brought Wright in a put the champs one ahead. Up came George Grantham and knocked the ball over the right fence for a home run. Traynor in ahead of him a putting the champs three runs ahead. Johnny Morrison was on the rub for the champs and the Cubs were could sting him after that third inn.

The results of matches in which Americans figured:

Robby Jones beat Maj. L. B. Ormrod, 3 and 2.

Francis Outland beat George Von Elm, 3 and 2.

M. D. Dickson beat Robert A. Gardner, 3 and 2.

Dr. H. Kyle beat Roland Mackenzie, one up.

K. G. Henderson beat Hyver Bankard, 4 and 2.

J. D. Forrester beat J. B. Krooman by default.

Joe Sweetser beat George Renwick, 6 and 1.

Watts Gunn beat F. L. Stone, two up.

Dakly Jones disappointed a large gallery of Scots, as well as a sprinkling of American admirers, by his unimpressive play against Maj. Ormrod.

Trouble for Bobby on Fourth.

Bobby halved the first hole, won the second, halved the third, and then his trouble began on the short fourth hole, where his drive bounced into a trap at the left of the green. The Atlantic City crowd, seeing the trouble he had missed, and then took two explosive shots in the sand trap, like a duffer, before he pitched up his ball.

Jones won the fifth, then luckily halved the sixth, and then driving his second brassie shot over a stone wall. The Georgian picked up on the short seventh, leaving the match square, but won on the eighth and ninth holes, thus winning the match and won the match on the sixteenth green.

Capt. Robert Gardner's unexpected defeat at the hands of H. M. Dickson of Glasgow was a blow for the American hopes, as Captain Gardner has a formidable record, doing even better than he.

Gardner's drives were wild going out of bounds on the sixth and ninth holes. His front shots were uncertain and his putting awful. The American captain had a fine drive on the eighth hole, but of 48 on a par 38. Gardner was down 3 at the sixteenth tee, with a fighting chance of saving the match if he steadied himself. Dickson laid Gardner's ball in the sand trap, and then halved the Scotsman's ball lying three inches from the cup and blocking Gardner's ball, which was about three feet away. Gardner made a desperate effort to loft his ball over the stymie.

Gunn Wins Close Match.
Watts Gunn, Georgia's favorite golfing son, next to Bobby Jones, won his first match today, beating a good Scotch player, F. L. Stone, by two holes.

Going out, Gunn lost the fifth and eighth holes, but at the turn led 5 up. Then suddenly he blew up, losing the twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth holes, squaring the match. The fifteenth and sixteenth holes were halved; then Gunn recovered with a fine rally, winning the seventeenth by sinking a ten foot putt and taking the eighteenth after Stone's tee shot was bunkered.

The gloom among the American forces brought on by Bob Gardner's defeat further was increased this afternoon when Dr. H. Kyle of the noted St. Andrews golfing clan eliminated Roland Mackenzie, whose spectacular driving caused a sensation yesterday.

Jess Sweetser, recovered from his recent illness, easily won his match, beating George Renwick of Northumberland, 6 to 4. Sweetser meets his teammate, Francis Quimet, in the next round.

Roger Wethered, the former amateur champion, was beaten, 3 and 2, by Robert Scott Jr., a Scotch star, whose playing was most impressive.

Quimet Wins on 16th.

Today's star match brought together Francis Quimet and George Von Elm. Von Elm, who had been in with a long lead, Quimet squared the hole at the sixth. Von Elm faltered, losing the seventh, eighth and ninth holes. The westerner took three putts for the tenth, but he was short with his approach on the eighth and ninth holes.

Von Elm won the tenth, halved the eleventh and then Quimet broke a birdie on the twelfth with a putt for a birdie three at the twelfth hole. On the thirteenth Von Elm holed a difficult twenty yard putt for a birdie two. On the fourteenth Quimet and fifteenth and Quimet won the sixteenth green.

Notes of the Sox and Cubs

DETROIT, Mich., May 25.—(Special)—The Sox departed tonight for Chicago. The record for the trip was seven wins and eleven defeats.

Tomorrow is an open date for the Sox, and on Thursday they will resume battling the Tigers at Comersey park.

The Tigers nipped Blankenship for a triple and two singles in the second, but didn't score. Warner made the triple with one out and was picked off third when Blankenship pitched out on an intended squeeze play. Then Tavenner and Kasser hit safely and Stoner fanned.

Kamm hit in hard luck. In the second frame he aimed one at the left field wall and Wingo leaped up and speared the pill with one hand. In the fifth he drove one at the score board and Cobb duplicated Wingo's feat.

As the result of the lambasting given Clyde Barfoot on Monday, Manager Cobb today sent the young man on his way. Barfoot will pitch for the Mission team of the Coast league for the rest of the season.

Rhyme would have had a double or triple in the seventh if our hero, Hack, wasn't a fast stepper. Hack captured the ball in left center while going at a breakneck pace.

Young Mr. Rhyme took a base hit away from Charley Grimm in the sixth when he skidded away over to his left and stabbed a low smash.

Cal Ewing, owner of the Oakland club in the Pacific Coast league, was a spectator at the game. Probably he's looking for help.

Field Trials Club Planned for Spaniels

BY BOB BECKER. Spaniel breeders and fanciers from several midwestern states are going to meet in Edgerton, Wis., next Sunday for the purpose of organizing a field trial club which will promote and stage field trials for the various breeds of spaniels.

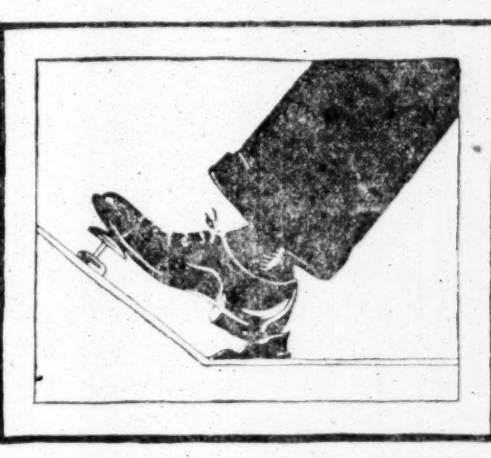

If you own or are interested in the cocker, springer, water, or any other type of spaniel you're invited to take part in the meeting.

For the last three years a large number of dog fans have been getting more and more interested in sporting spaniels. According to Dean Swift of Edgerton, who is the unofficial host at the meeting next Sunday, there are now quite a number of outdoorsmen around Edgerton who own fine spaniels and are keen about their value as field dogs, and these boys are leading the way in organizing a club.

Our springer pup, a son of Samson of Levan, was on deck instead of galloping around the Canadian prairie learning how to retrieve and how to obey, we would load young Sammy in the bus and travel to Edgerton for the Sunday meeting, as we are for the idea.

Three Yacht Races on Memorial Day Program. Three events will form the racing program to be staged by the Chicago Yacht club starting at 2:30 o'clock Memorial day. For the first time this season the R boats will line up on the starting line for a race. Events for the eagle and pup classes also will be held.

Your foot will prove that Gasolines are different

When you step on the accelerator and you feel the car "jump" isn't that the real thrill? Gasolines vary as much as coal. Some give much greater horsepower than others.

Use pure Sunoco gasoline. Don't mix any other with it. You'll get that "kick" out of your car that makes motoring a real joy.

Notes of Boxers

Nate Goldman, the Philadelphia welterweight, matched to meet Shufly Calahan of Chicago Heights at East Chicago Friday night, worked at Mulholland yesterday. The easterner appears fast and shifty. Goldman is anxious to make an impression in this fight, so he may appear in shows to be held in Chicago.

Wolcott Langford, colored welterweight, under the management of Barney Abel, arrived in Chicago from Evansville, Ind., and worked out for his match with Gus Gable, the semi-wildcat to the Goldman-Calahan affair. Other boxers were through the usual routine of training and all will engage in final bouts today. The show will be staged by East Chicago 224 who will devote the proceeds to their hospital fund.

Jimmy Wisley, Louisville welterweight, put in a busy afternoon in preparation for his bout with Mike Mitchell of Mulholland at Cedar Rapids, Ia., Monday night. Wisley and Mitchell were scheduled to fight Saturday. On June 4, Wisley will meet Johnny Nelson of St. Louis in a second round at Indianapolis. The weight for both bouts will be 147 pounds.

Sammy Marshall, the Rochester lightweight, will be in Chicago today to confer with Manager Kline and Bookie regarding his training place for the Kline bout.

Peter Baranenko arrived in Chicago and remained today. Peter the nothing dog, said in view of his Manager Bill Miller expects to stage two matches in a few days.

315 Big Ten Stars Entered in Track Meet

Three hundred and fifteen athletes, representing the ten universities in the western conference, will compete in the annual track and field championships of the Big Ten at Iowa City Friday and Saturday.

In the number of contestants Iowa, the indoor champion, tops the list with an entry of fifty-one performers. Coach Harry Gill of Illinois has nominated forty-three and Steve Farrell of Michigan, forty-one. Ohio State will also have forty-one men in the games and Wisconsin thirty-eight.

Illini Team Well Balanced.

As the struggle for team honors rages between Illinois, Michigan, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Ohio State, the coaches have entered every athlete who has given the slightest indication of scoring points.

Illinois has a well balanced team which should chalk up points in nearly every one of the sixteen events. Coach Gill has been having unusual success with his field event performers, who should be deciding factors in switching the tide to the downstate institution.

First Mortgage Leasehold 6 1/2% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds

Dated May 15, 1926

Due May 15, 1946

Coupon Bonds in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100. Registerable as to principal only. Interest payable semi-annually May 15 and November 15 at Central Trust Company of Illinois, Chicago, without deduction for Normal Federal Income Tax not exceeding 2%. Callable as a whole at any time on 60 days' published notice and in part on any interest payment date on 30 days' published notice at 103 and interest on or before May 15, 1934, thereafter at a premium of 1/4 of 1% less for each year of prepayment until maturity.

CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF ILLINOIS, Trustee

The President of the Corporation has summarized his letter to us as follows:

Security: The bonds will be a direct obligation of the Sixth and Pierce Street Building Corporation and in the opinion of counsel will be secured by a first closed mortgage on the leasehold estate in approximately 22,500 square feet of land situated at the northeast corner of Sixth and Pierce Streets, Sioux City, together with a modern electric power and heating plant, and the six-story office building of standard fireproof construction situated thereon known as the Davidson Building.

Description of Property: The Davidson Building has approximately 300 feet of street frontage; 150 feet on Sixth Street and 150 feet on Pierce Street, one of the most prominent downtown corners in Sioux City, within a block of the Court House and Post Office. The building is a modern fireproof structure of steel and concrete construction, containing a net reputable area of approximately 77,308 square feet. The building is notable for its exceptionally high character of its tenants.

Valuation: The building and power plant, exclusive of the leasehold estate, have been valued by independent appraisers, the lower appraisal being $873,290.00. Based on this valuation, this loan is approximately 40% of the value of the mortgaged property.

Earnings: Earnings of the building after taxes, ground rental, operating expenses and including non-recurring charges, available for the payment of interest, are reported from the audit of Mr. Sidney L. Taylor, Certified Public Accountant, for the year ended December 31, 1925 at $45,044, or approximately two times the maximum annual interest requirement on this issue of bonds.

For further information regarding this issue of bonds, reference is made to a letter from Mr. President of the Davidson Building Corporation, copies of which may be obtained from the undersigned. We offer these bonds when, as and if issued and accepted by us and subject to approval of our Counsel, Messrs. Chapman, Collier and Parker, Chicago.

New York May 25.—Heavy profit taking sales by professional traders impeded the resumption of upward movement of prices in today's stock market, which was featured by the strength and activity of the rail and oil shares.

Trading broadened somewhat in volume, indicating a freshening of public interest. The day's sales accounted 3,217,000 shares. Call money held steady at 4 per cent all day, although larger sums were reported to be available with the result that the official rate was again shaded in the "outside market."Buying of the railroad shares was stimulated by the publication of another series of favorable earnings statements. Atlantic Coast line reported 21 per cent higher after having touched 20 1/2 per cent and the same of a point or more were recorded by Canadian Pacific, Denver and Rio-Grande Western and Great Northern.Erie, second preferred,
"Ray" preferred, and Seaboard Air
Line preferred.

Room in Oil Shares.

Bullish operations in the oil shares were based on reports of large current earnings, a further extension of themgasoline price advances, and favorable dividend and merger rumors. Pan-American B was taken in large volume crossing 70 for the first time since the middle of February, closing at 65 1/2 for a net gain of 1 1/2. Tidewater, Houston, Marathon, General Asphalt, Mid-Continent, and Standard Oil of California, all closed a point or more higher, the last named reaching a new high for the year at 54 1/2. Atlantic Refining fell back over 2 points on profit taking.United Cigar Stores was bid up nearly three points to 35 1/2 on rumors of an extra dividend distribution. The three American Sumatra Tobacco issues all touched new high levels for the year.
Motors were again heavy.Hudson closed a point lower at 62 1/2, and most of the others yielded fractionally.

Traction at New High.

Talk of increased fares accompanied the latest advance in the local traction Interborough Rapid Transit and Manhattan modified guaranteed touching new high prices for the year at 72 1/2 and 73 1/2, respectively. Other outstanding strong spots included Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies, California Packing, Foundation Company, International Harvester, International Telephone, New York Central, Owens, Home, Postum Cereal, Sears, Roebuck and Co., and Western Union, all up 1/2 points or more.Foreign exchanges were heavy, with some sharp reversions taking place in the case of the continental rates. Demand
Sterling was quoted just under $4.86.
French francs broke about 15 points to below 34 cents, and Belgian francs ruled about 10 points lower, around the same price.

Right Into His Office.

My boss is a reserved and extremely quiet man. He generally enters his office quietly and does not come out into the general office except on rare occasions.

The other morning I sat down to the office unusually early and, believing myself to be the only one down, I rushed into the boss' private office to do up before his mirror, singing as I ran, "Mamma, Hiss Those, Mamma Hiss Those, but Four Pups."

As the office door opened after me I looked into the surprised eyes of my boss, who was sitting at his desk, apparently head over heels in work. I fled in embarrassment and hope I may never see a look of recognition from him in the future. M. P.

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON

Spring Soup.

A soup from a dairy stock and well-stocked with vegetables has been given the name of spring soup in French. In French cook books one may find numerous variations of meat stock and vegetables, all labeled with "printanier."

A part of the attractiveness of these simple vegetable soups is due to the way the vegetables are cut up. Here is one pleasant combination to make. One quart of meat stock, one cup of green shelled peas, two leeks, two carrots, one teaspoon of salt.

Cook the leeks and carrots, cut fine, over a low fire until tender, then add them to the hot vegetable stock, and at the same time put into it the green peas. Fresh green peas should cook in fifteen minutes, but if they are not fresh and tender it may take half an hour. This longer time of cooking takes some of the life out of them, and so they are not worth much, from the flavor standpoint, although they enhance the appearance of the soup.

Carrot put through a food chopper gives up more of its sweetness than if cut in small cubes. The other vegetables are cut in small cubes, and the soup is then thickened with a little flour.

If a leek is put in so that it is practically invisible in the soup, with the whole, it is perhaps better than a leek cut in small cubes, for the soup is then a little thicker.

We may make combinations to add to the base of vegetable stock with a knowledge of what the soup is to be. The spring soup is that it is made while the vegetables are in season, and the soup is then a little thicker.

LEWISWOOD RESORT—Slater Lake, Mich.

She Loved Him at 16, but He Seems Quite Changed to Her at 21

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Worried" at 16, started going steadily with a boy. They fell in love. He was a good-looking, fair-haired, and at 16 he seemed the ideal sweetheart. All that mattered then was that he was good-looking, a fair dandy, and a good spender.

Now it is different, she tells me. She is 21, and her views have changed. He, but a couple of years older, has settled down, but she feels so much older and more advanced. She is a city girl—a downtowner. When he comes to see her she sometimes feels ashamed to have him meet people for fear he will not like a country "hick." His virtues are many, though. He has a heart of gold and would make a wonderful husband. But she cannot be blind to his faults. When they are alone she is happy. When they are in company she becomes conscious of the fact that his manners could be greatly improved upon.

"Do you think I can make a gentleman of him?" she asks. "Or do you think the years have changed my feeling for him?"

It is a pretty sure sign that love is on the wane when one begins picking on the hitherto untried virtues and the speech on the beloved. It is one of the recognized omens.

The dangers of a too early marriage are revealed in the transition of Worried's feelings. It is not always true that the boy you love in your early teens is not going to suit you twenty years later. But the change in feeling happens too frequently to make it accidental.

When two young people arrive at this stage, a separation is advisable. It may turn out that they, after four or five years of close association, find they are happier together, after all. But in order to be sure of it the temporary break is worth trying out for future security.

It is a difficult job to attempt an immediate transformation of a rough diamond into the polished article without what might be interpreted as nagging. It can be done slowly and with if there is an unquestioned love directing the program, and kindly, tolerant patience is exercised.

I suppose we are all kind of snobbish when it comes to showing off the prize, so I have let the diamond for the young girl who wants her beau to shine out in her circle of friends. Nevertheless, it is a weakness to neglect the solid virtues against the superficial ones, isn't it?

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

She Loves Him.

"Dear Miss Blake: I met a fellow of 40, and have been seeing him once a week. He is a very nice, thoughtful man in my company. Being a few years younger than he and much in love with him, do you think it advisable to keep on going with him?"

Yes, Anxious, continue to see him. You have every reason to feel he cares, otherwise he would not be so attentive and thoughtful of you.

FARM AND GARDEN

Tests made during the last five years by the state natural history survey and the agricultural experiment station at Urbana, Ill., showed that the best control measure to use on striped cucumber beetles is a mixture of one part calcium arsenate and twenty parts gypsum, dusted over the plants and the ground around them.

It is not necessary to apply dust guns or blow dusters to apply the mixture, for home-made shakers are used effectively in making a shaker. Flint state entomologist, says to nail a wooden extension board to the sides of a half gallon tin or bucket having a tight fitting lid. Punch holes in the bottom of the buckets with an eight penny nail from the outside in, at the rate of four to the square inch. Flint says the first application should be made as the cucumber plants appear above the ground and repeated at five or seven day intervals until the vines are two or three feet long. Fill the bucket with a full of the dust mixture and with a jiggling motion sprinkle the plants and ground. Rain washes off the material so that another dusting is necessary after heavy showers. Keep the leaves and ground covered with dust.

For the College Prom Is a Lace Suggestion

BY CORINNE LOWE

by Corinne Lowe

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondent)—If you are looking forward to being a Prominent citizen, Cherish has something to say to you on the subject. To the young girl of the college from the above model offers, in fact, an exceptional opportunity to look different.

The latter appears as an underling, and the former runs through its lace to a fairytale tracery of gold. The gold is reaffirmed in the blindings of the entire frock. You see them edging the pointed top of the taffeta underfrock, and they attain a higher degree of visibility on the lace. Here they finish neckline, arm holes, and each division at the top of the skirt.

Although taffeta and chiffon are perhaps first choice for the debutante and the young girl, lace is frequently borrowed from more mature styles. Here it holds a strongly fortified position, and the summer advances we find more and more evening gowns which combine with their fabrics lace dyed to match.

A young man becoming established among the younger set is that of the berth, and some of the most adorable of dance frocks are simple chiffon creations with slightly flaring skirt and a deep, berth dipping almost to the waistline. Both berth and skirt are usually embroidered in crystals or in color.

DAWES SPLIT WITH PRESIDENT
ON FARM ISSIs for Equalization
Fee Legislation

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENRY

Washington, D. C., May 26. (Associated Press.)—Indorsement by Vice President Dawes of the principle of proportionate taxation to raise the price of products on the American market, through control of the surplus coverage of losses by an equal fee assessed on production creation in the capital today. In pronouncing the plan economy sound the Vice President took issue with President Coolidge, who regards it unsound, and a danger price fixing scheme. It was the action of the President to the raising plan, of which the equal fee is the distinctive feature, that resulted in the defeat of the House in the house last week.

Speculate on 1928. While Gen. Dawes is not an advocate of the Haugen bill or any other of the measure, his views place in accord in the main with the plan embodied in the original Dickinson. The joining of the issue between President and the Vice President caused the politicians to pick up ears. Speculation started on the ability of Gen. Dawes becoming a belt candidate for the Republican nomination for President against Mr. Hughes in 1928 in the event that the era fail to obtain price stabilization legislation and carry their demand relief into the national election.

Dawes Snorts at Idea. When this suggestion came ears of the Vice President, a snort and an impatient wave underlying pipe signified his reaction. He wanted it distinct derided that he is never going a candidate for any office or any office again. He is intent charging his duties as Vice President to the best of his ability. As to his attitude on farm relief, he cannot understand why seems necessary to discover a motive in a desire to help out greatest problem confronting country. The decline of agriculture, Dawes, it transpires, has studying the question of agriculture for a couple of years and not commit himself to the pricing plan embodying the control surplus and the equalization fee. It had been pronounced sound by John A. Ladd, the British economist, and several American economists. He is convinced that the fee is as sound economically as the five tariff and is the only one making the tariff effective on agricultural products.

Impetus to Legislation. The Vice President's indorsement presented by Senator Watson (Ind.), on the floor of the senate, given impetus to the movement of surplus control legislation. It is evident that his opinion influenced conservative thought senate to such an extent that the belt leaders now believe there is prospect of getting a price stabilization bill through that body. Among close associates of President Coolidge, the reaction to the endorsement of the situation was favorable. Their recentment concealed, and the hope was that senators would resent the indorsement as an unwarranted intrusion into legislative matters. Fact is that Dawes did not of view, and that Watson present Vice President's indorsement farm relief plan without permission.

Madden Offers Compromise. From the Coolidge circle came opinion that even if the senate pass the sort of bill approved by Dawes the house would reject the Haugen bill. This, however, by no means a certainty. Administration forces which kill the Haugen bill are not feeling able over the prospect of going the elections this year with no relief legislation accomplished. Representative Madden (Rep., Ia.) and other farm bloc leaders today suggested agreement moderate bill involving no advance from the federal treasury. He indicated a willingness to accept the equalization fee plan, contrasting that he is in closer with Dawes than with the President at that point.

Senator Cummins (Rep., Ia.) extended speech in the senate afternoon, defending the Haugen bill, the charges that it is a tax scheme and a subsidy.
